THE GING MURDER.

MORE ARRESTS ARE LIKELY TO BE MADE.

The Commercial Traveler Who Sent a Note to the Dead Woman is Wanted-She Had Five Insurance Policies.

Associated Press Legged-wire Service,
MINNEAPOLIS (Minn.,) Dec. 10.—The MINNEAPOLIS (Minn.) Dec. 10.—The Journal says there are probably more arrests to come in the Ging murder case. From the first it has been regarded as well-nigh incredible that Harry Hayward, used as he was to playing for high stakes, a man who had often placed $1000 on the turn of a card, should fall into a conspiracy against this girl's life for a share of only $10,000 insurance. It has been considered of parameunt importance that the man who sent a note to Miss Ging on the morning of the murder from outside the West Hotel should be identified.

The view has been taken that this man was a commercial traveler who had nothing to do with the tragedy whatever, but in such an event it would cost the man nothing to set the doubt on the subject of his identity and purpose in sending that note at rest. The fact that he has not come forward has inspired the authorities with a belief that he had an important connection with the case. It has leaked out that the sender of that note has been identified to the satisfaction of detectives, and that his arrest is likely to occur at any moment.

the sender of that note has been identified to the satisfaction of detectives, and that his arrest is likely to occur at any moment. Hayward had a greater incentive than has hitherto been supposed in desiring the death of Catherine Ging. The young woman is said, on very good authority, to have had five insurance policies instead of two, and each of them was for $5000. Three other persons better Hayward were in the plan for bringts, bout her death, and these men have and yet been taken into custody. One of them is the man of dark complexion who sent Miss Ging a note from the West Hotel on the morning of the assassination. That no report has been made of the existence of other policies on Miss Ging's life is not surprising. For the reason that presumably the conspirators are afraid to demand settlement of their claims. The grand jury has finished its investigation of the case, but no indictments have been found.

Appropriation Bills are Passed.

The Income Tax Feature Indorsed.

Debate on the Pension Bill in the House is Continued Until Today.

The Senate Occupied with the Nicara-gua Canal Bill and a Proposition to Establish a National University.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13 .- The House to Urzency Deficiency, Forifications and Military Academy, and made progress on the pension bill. Mr. Cockran procured a record-making rote on the appropriation for the income tax by moving to recom out, but his motion was defeated by 120 majority, the vote standing 40 to 169.

The Fortifications Bill, as passed, carried

$1,879,057, or $5,478,646 less than the estimates, and the Military Academy Bill $457,679, or $127,372 less than the estimates. The Pension Bill, with which the day will be taken up tomorrow, carries $147,381,570, or $200,000 less than the estimates and $10,200,000 less than the appropriation for the current fiscal year.

In the Senate Mr. Sherman introduced a bill providing for the purchase of a statue of the late Chief Justice Chase.

FIFTY-THIRD CONGRESS.

SECOND SESSION.

Associated Press Leanest-wire Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—SENATE.—The Senate adjourned today until next Monday. Practically all the time of the cession was consumed in the discussion of the bill to establish a national university at Washington, and the Nicaragua Canal Bill. Senators Hunton of Virginia and Vilas of Wisconsin addressed the Senate in support of the former, and Mr. Morgan practically concluded his speech on the latter measure. During the day he asked the Senate that unanimous consent be given for fixing a time for a vote on the bill, but this was ratused.

Mr. Hunton of Virginia moved to take up the bill for the establishment of a University of the United States at Washington. Mr. Hale of Maine objected to the consideration of the bill at this time, but suggested that it be required to be returned to the calendar under a rule of the Senate where it could be debated in some way "commensurate with its importance." Mr. Hunton insisted however.

some way "commensurate with its importance." Mr. Hunton insisted, however, view that the United States would be acting entirely within its constitutional rights in engaging in this enterprise Vestern States. Senator Morgan in continuing his argument, said that the constitutionality of, this right had been favorably passed upon by so many of the Presidents of the United States that it seems presumptuous to discuss the question. He presented to the Senate a long list of commercial interests representing all parts of the United States which were favorable to the construction of the canal. There were probably two en Senators present during the delivery of Mr. Morgan's speech and the Senator took occasion to express surprise for the lack of interest displayed.

Mr. Morgan also addressed himself to the necessity of building the canal, so that relief may be afforded to the people of the Western part of the country as a pos-sible result of the operations and actions of the transcontinental railways. There was no danger to Democratic principles, he asserted. He asked that they grant this and aid the millions who are ground to death by the monopoly of the transcontinental railways and who were sending up petitions continuously in favor of this bill. Mr. Morgan, in closing, said that he would now leave the matter in the hands of the Senate, unless it should be nances of the Senate, unless it should be necessary to answer questions that might arise. He asked that a vote be now taken. Mr. Wolcott then reviewed the motion made the other day by Mr. Blackburn that when the Senate adjourned today it that when the Senate adjourned teday it be to meet on Monday. The yeas and nays were demanded and the motion carried by a vote of 26 to 22. The Senate then went into executive session and, at 4:05 p.m. and fifteen minutes later adjourned until HOUSE.—The House this morning postponed until January 15 the Williams-Set tle election case, and immediately went into committee of the whole for the furinto committee of the whole for the fur-ther consideration of the Urgency Defic-iency Bill and appropriation bills. The pending amendment was that of Mr. Hen-derson of Iowa, to reduce the appropriation of $250,000 for special examiners to $125,-000. It was lost by 59 to 88. The committee then rose and reported to the House with a favorable recommenda-tion. The previous question was ordered, and Mr. Cockran of New York mowed to

At the conclusion of Mr. Hunton's speech, Mr. Morgan asked unanimous consent that the vote on the Nicaragua Bill and amendments be taken up next Wednesday at 3 o'clock. Mr. Caffery of Louisville objected.

Mr. Blackburn of Kentucky moved that when the Senate adjourn today it be to finest on Monday next. On this motion Mr. Morgan demanded the yeas and nays. The voted resulted: Yeas, 22; nays, 23.

Mr. Vilas of Wisconsin then addressed the Senate in advocacy of the University Bill.

Senator Morgan took the floor at the conclusion of Senator Vilas's remarks, beginning with the reading of an opinion by Chief Justice Daly of New York on the constitutional power of the United States to all in constructing the Nicaragua Canal. MR. WELLS OF WISCONSIN IS ON THE QUI VIVE.

He is Challenged to Fight a Duel Because He Had a Man "Fired" and He Adopts Speaker Crisp's Advice.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Representative Walshingfor, Dec. 13.—Representative Wells of the Sixth Wisconsin District is carrying a gun on the advice of Speaker Crisp, jokingly given, with which he intends to defend himself if Watson H. Cook, a brother of the Republican who defeated Wells at the last election, attempts to Wells at the last election, attempts to curtail his earthly career. Cook has challenged Wells to fight a duel. Wells has refused, and Cook, so Wells says, has threatened to kill him. The trouble began with the election. Wells got Cook a place in the Pension Office, but when Cook's brother was nominated against Wells for Congress, Cook took the stump for his brother.

Wells, sharply, and then taking the arm of a friend he walked away. Cook left the Capitol.

Wells, greatly excited, told Speaker Crisp what had happened, and asked the Speaker what he should do. The Speaker replied, jokingly: "First I would get cook's scalp, and then I would arm myself and watch for him." Wells followed the advice to the letter, and now the Speaker is annoyed that he has become mixed up in the affair. Wells submitted charges against Cook to the Deputy Commissioner of Pensions, and Cook was dismissed. Then Wells visited a hardware store and bought a navy revolver. Now he is "watching out" for Cook.

Higgins was not called upon to give any testimony. He left the upon to give any testimony. He left the books in the possession of the jury.

A number of witnesses also responded to subpoenas that had been served on them. Previous to the election, charges were made that in revising the registration lists thousands of voters were disfranchised. The Committee of Public Safety has received numerous complaints from persons who claim to have been disfranchised by the revision. Nearly all the complaints, it is said, come from colored voters living in the down-town wards. The committee has been offered the services of several colored people who profess to know of frauds. One of these declares that outside of the down-town wards 2000 colored voters were disfranchised. The disfranchisement, he says, occurred principally in the Fourteenth, Fifteenth and Twenty-sixth wards.

sumed before Commissioner Walter Cleary today. There have been several examinations held within the past two months, at which the testimony of jobbers and dealers has showed that the trust controls 98 per cent. of the cigarette business in the United States. Commissions have also been issued in other States, and during the week witnesses have been examined in St. Louis and Minneapolis.

The first witness today was Henry B. Herbert, a Brooklyn cigar-dealer. Two years ago he entered into a contract with the American Tobacco Company, the terms of which he never clearly understood. His rebates were cut off, and then his entire supply of cigarettes was stopped because the company deemed his act in giving away matches to customers an attempt to cut the price. Witness soil 250,000 cigarettes without rebate. He received a circular from the company with reference to the terms on which rebates were granted, and, after signing a printed paper he got his rebate. Mr. Herbert said that he was to sell at $1.90 a box or $3.80 a thousand. He was allowed 2 per cent. for payment in ten days and 25 per cent. every six months.

Mr. Lindberg then took a hand for the company and got the witness to admit that after his conversation with the company's representatives he had given his customers no matches with their cigarettes. Witness said that when giving the matches away he knew he was violating the contract with the company.

Julius E. Herman of the firm of Sbberg, Bachman & Co., of San Francisco was the next witness. He is the president of the J. B. Pace Tobacco Company of Richmond, Va. The witness produced a number of invoices prior to 1891 were from the individual companies, which subsequantly formed the trust. In the latter ones, each company was styled "branch of the American Tobacco Company." In February, 1891, he signed a contract with the American Tobacco Company. He was cut off a second time about a year ago.

Favors Substantially the Baltimore Scheme—B. E. Fetris of New York Would Leave the Bonds Alone.

Associated Press Leased-wire Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13. — The House Banking and Currency Committee continued its hearing today. Letters were read from W. M. Dana, editor of the Commercial and Financial Chronicle, and R. R. Ferris, vice-president of the Bank of New York. Ferris said: "There seems to be no good reason why existing national banks which have United States bonds on deposit with the Comptroller should not be allowed to continue as they are until their charters expire or the deposited bonds are paid off. Sec. 7 of Carlisle's bill seems like forcing the banks to do what they have not been consulted about." Ferris advocated the establishment of central redemption agencies, which would, he thought, enhance the elasticity of circulation, based on the deposit of bonds.

tion, based on the deposit of bonds.

Referring to see. 10 of Secretary Carlisle's bill, providing for an issue of notes by State banks, without the provision of a sinking fund, Ferris says: "It makes the bill simply an inflation measure modified by the deposit of 30 per cent. legal tender notes, and the provision to cancel United States notes to the extent of 70 per cent. of new circulation issued when the treasury has means to do it." The letter concluded: "As the bill substitutes national bank notes for the new issue, it will be a failure, as it presents no inducements to solid banks to become insurers of the circulation of mushroom institutions, and a stimulant to organize banks not subject to United States inspection is questionable." William H. Cornwall, president of the New York State Bankers' Association, read a carefully-prepared paper, advocating substantially the Baltimore plan. He said that his recommendations were as follows:

First.—The greenback and treasury notes should be redeemed, then cancelled. The real business of the government as regards money is to stamp upon gold and silver their fineness and weight. A government has no right to issue with nothing back of it and to make it legal tender; to create a currency and by an act of law force the people to take its full value without a regard to intrinsic worth. All such issues up to today have ended in trouble. The greenback and treasury note are of this character. They are the government's note to the extent of $500,000,000, payable on demand and in gold. They have caused trouble enough already. They are a constant menace to the gold reserve. They should be paid up.

Second—The vacancy should be filled with bank notes. The best currency of the best nations today is mainly bank notes which are a first lien upon the assets of the bank. These assets are commercial possessions, representing the product of the brain and muscle of millions of people. They are the wealth of the nation? To fill the vacancy created by the retirement of the legal tender

At the afternoon session Chairman

Currency and one of the advocates of the Currency and one of the advocates of the Baltimore plan. Mr. Hepburn wrote as follows:

"Of course Mr. Carlisle's provision requiring banks taking out circulation to deposit greenbacks and treasury notes is made in the interest of relieving the government and not for the benefit of a currency issue. I do not know that I would have any objection to this. I yould like to see any safe course pursued, which would relieve the government of its embarrassments. It is by no means a blessing to the banks, the retirement of the government from the banking business. While it would benefit the government and the people as a whole it would certainly put added responsibilities upon the banks. I am strongly opposed to the proposition to da away with the requirements that the banks keep reserves, and my understanding of the law does not tally with that of the Secretary.

"The law when it was drafted, as I understand it, was based upon the experience of prudent and well-meaning banks carried thoir reserve. It was sought to fix a limit so a well-meaning bank sould as often be over as under the reserve in the regular course of business. This law is made, not for the nine banks who would observe it without any legal provisions, but for the tent, that either incompetent, speculative or unsafe management, might fall to keep a proper reserve, and to keep its finances sufficiently strong to meet the demand that might be made upon it. The statement which the Secretary makes that the State banks keep 20 per cent. reserve, whereas the national banks keep only 18 per cent. I do not think is well founded."

Hepburn also criticised the repeal of the 10 per cent. tax on State-bank notes, while leaving a tax on national-bank notes; also the forbidding of national banks to issue notes of less than $10; the safety fund should also be equally compulsory; State banks should be required to keep the same reserve. He closes by saying: "The Secretary's discussion of the financial question in general, I most cordially approve, and the conclusions he reaches, I believe are wise and sound, but the details of the bill he has submitted, in my judgment, are open to serious criticism." udgment, are open to serious criticism."

His victim was a young man named George Wemett, and the murder occurred at Burr Oak on the evening of September 1, last. It was, in fact, a double murder. Mrs. Cater, wife of the criminal, was killed the same night by blows on the head, supposed to be from an axe, and her throat was cut. Wemett met his death from a pistol shot just behind the right ear, the evidence as to the death of the latter being much the clearest. Cater was tried under an indictment covering that case alone. The general sentiment of the people appears to be in his favor. He has control of several of the principal ports and is very strong in the interior of the country. He has a well-equipped army and is close to Lima, the capital. The Pacific Steam Navigation Company's steamer Puno was, on her arrival, November 14, subjected to rigid examination by government troops to discover if she was carrying arms or ammunition. A company of soldiers remained on the body until it arrived at Callao, the port of Lima, to prevent communication with the adherents of Gen. Pierola and inspect all cargo landed.

The same company's steamer Serna had a lively experience at Cerro Azul, the first port of call south of Callao. The vessel had on board a detachment of government troops in charge of a prisoner. As it entered port it set the usual signals for lighters, it not being known that Plerola's forces had captured the town. A lighter, apparently loaded with sugar, went alongside the Serna, those on the steamer were greatly surprised when the lighter was found to be filled with armed revolutionists who, after a short struggle captured the government troops and released the prisoners. During the struggle the captain of the Serna attempted to take his vessel out of the harbor, but a rife presented at his head caused him to change his mind.

When these advices were dispatched Pierola's forces had control of the Oroya railroad and traffic to Ancuo was suspended. The only railway in the country remaining in operation was the short line between Lima and Callao. On November 12 the government fitted out an armored train, with a gatling-gun battery to carry 2000 soldiers along the Oroya railroad to drive off the revolutionists along the line. 22 the government fitted out an armored train, with a gailing-gun battery to carry 2000 soldiers along the Oroya railroad to drive off the revolutionists along the line. As the train approached the camp of the revolutionists, 15,000 government troops deserted with arms and ammunition and joined the rebels. The remainder of the government forces returned to Lima. The condition of government troops is deplorable, owing to bat food and ill-treatment, and as they have not received any pay for several months, discontent is almost universal and desertions numerous. Great distress and suffering prevails at Lima and Callao, owing to high prices and scarcity of provisions. The people able to do so have provided themselves with sufficient food in anticipation of a thirty days' siege. In Callao the marines on one of the government hulks mutinled. To prevent insubordination spreading, all hands were placed under arrest on a hulk anchored between two government ships and all shipping in the harbor was notified to withdraw from the line of fire.

Mail steamers of the Chilean and Pacific Steam Navigation Companies are subjected to search and inspection by each party, and are doing practically no business in Peruvian waters.

Ex-Justice Van Patterson and Joseph Nougess appeared as principal attorneys for the Board of Election Commissioners, the defendant, though in reality they represented the interests of Budd. George A. Knight and several other lawyers appeared on behalf of the petitioner, Chairman Cornwall of the Republican State Committee, Chief Justice Beatty and Justices De Haven, Harrison, Van Fleet, Garoutte and McFarland were on the bench, Justice Fitzgerald having been a candidate, and being interested in the decision to be rendered, did not sit.

The counsel for Cornwall, or Estee, attempted to secure a delay of proceedings, but were unsuccessful, and Attorney Patterson, on behalf of the defendants, opened the arguments.

legal question involved, as to whether the petition alleged facts sufficient to warrant the issuance of a citation to a Board of Election Commissioners to come before the court and defend their official acts. He court and defend their official acts. He argued that the petitioner, Cornwall, was not the real party in interest, inasmuch as the statute requires that any action of the kind must be brought by the party who is injured. Cornwall, he declared, could not be injured by the election of Budd. He declared, too, that the petition asked the court to do indirectly what it could not do directly, that is, hear a contest over the election of Governor, which can only be heard by the Legislature.

Ex-Judge Daly of Ventura arguing for the petitioner, insisted that all that was sought by the writ was to compel the Board of Election Commissioners to canvass those returns which were in proper legal form and to compel precinct election officers to fulfill their legal duties and make proper returns.

Interrupting him Judge De Haven settled.

vass those returns which were in proper legal form and to compel precinct election officers to fulfill their legal duties and make proper returns.

Interrupting him, Judge De Haven said: "The question, as I understand it, is whether there were legal returns to canvass and what returns were legal."

Having been straightened out on this point, Daly declared that the Election Commissioners could not canvass any returns not authenticated as the law requires, and that their efforts to correct such returns by citing the election officers to appear and complete their work was not according to law. He asked that the Election Commissioners be instructed to canvass the returns propertly authenticated and that the court direct them as to what course to follow with returns not properly authenticated.

The decision of the Illinois Supreme Court was read, in which it was held that where returns had not been signed through ignorance or inadvertence that election officers might amend the returns by signing certificates any time before the vote had been canvassed. The petitioners refused to concede that this was law, but Justice Beatty intimated that such would be considered good law. Long and tedious arguments then followed, and a motion to dismiss the petition was made.

Justices De Haven and Garoutte said that if the returns had been properly certified to before the canvass of votes was finished, they were willing to grant the motion now. The decision of the court was reserved, however, until 10 o'clock temberrow morning. It is generally the belief that the court will refuse to issue the citation petitioned for.

AN IMPORTANT CAPTURE.

A Counterfeiters' Den Raided and Two Men Arrested.

Issociated Press Leased-wire Service, BOISE (Idaho,) Dec. 13.—Marion Myers and George Wheeler were arrested at Caldwell today, for counterfeiting. For several months past the presence of a gang of counterfeiters has been suspected in that vicinity. On numerous instances of questionable appearance.

Suspicion was finally fastened on Myers and Wheeler, who were shadowed by the police. Their haunt was a dilapidated old farmhouse, near Caldwell. A careful watch was set, and finally, at an opporwatch was set, and finally, at an opportune moment, a rush was made, but no counterfeiting outfit was discovered. Still sufficient proofs were developed to warrant their arrest, and they were brought to Boise and lodged in jail, to await a preliminary hearing before the United States Commissioner, which will come off in a few days. Wheeler is said to be an experienced counterfeiter, who made a brilliant record in other places. He is thought to be the head of a gang operating extensively on this Coast.

Myers is a farmer, and has Hved here for twenty years. He is a green hand at the business, and through him it is expected to gain important information that will expose the workings of the entire gang, and lead to their arrest.

A committee of three, consisting of Nason, Ludden and Thompson, was appointed to confer with Gov. Crounse and Gov.-elect Holcomb in regard to recommending to the Legislature some plan to secure seed grain for the destitute people of Nebraska. The object sought is to unify all society or individual efforts in this direction, that the greatest and most immediate good may be secured. It is expected that Gov. Crounse will devote a portion of his message to this subject, and Gov.-elect Holcomb will undoubtedly have some suggestions regarding the same in his inaugural message. It is expected that the report of the committee of three will be made next Saturday. The secretary is receiving nearly a hundred letters daily, asking about the prospect of seed grain. Cash relief contributions received from parties outside of Nebraska reported today amount to $124.

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—Kate Field last night told the Third Ward Democratic Club. which is conducting a "campaign of education" between elections, why prohibition is intemperate. There was a large audience in Arlington Hall to hear Miss Field. Among other things she said that in Maine men voted to let their houses to be searched and their personal liberty infringed.

"A man there," said Miss Field, "contrary to justice is held guilty until he proves himself innocent. A man who pays no attention to reason, and is moved to vote by a pretty woman, deserves to suffer from the effect of bad government all his life. Atchison, Kan., under prohibition, in one year spent $5,000,000 for groceries and $1,000,000 for drugs. Prohibition his ruined the inhabitants of the Aleutian Islands, who drink Florida water and perfumery and any vile concoction that they can buy.

"Alcohol is in everything. The Creator understood His work and let us accept the situation. In human stomachs indigested food ferments and alcohol results. Every dyspeptic is a walking distillery. Must they be abolished? If so, a goodly number of our own race must perish. Total abstainers est great quantities of sweets. These ferment and the Prohibitionist themselves form a grand cordon of illicit distilleries."

Miss Field said that the moderate use of beer and wine, both pure, and the eschewing of liquors would promote true temperance. High license and an uprising against adulteration will result in untold good.

A NEW YEAR'S PRESENT (?)

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 13.—There no longer remains any doubt in the minds of Southern Pacific employees that they will have to submit to a reduction in safaries at the first of the year. Ever since the general shake-up, a few months ago, rumors of a reduction have been rife, though the anxious employees did not anticipate such a general and heavy reduction that rumor has given credit to within the last day or so, and neither did they suppose that the reduction would be as far-reaching as it probably will be.

The whole Pacific division, from Portland on the north to Ogden on the east and El Paso on the south, will be affected. Hardly any branch of the system escapes the reduction, which will be in the neighborhood of 10 per cent. A NEW YEAR'S PRESENT (2)

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—John Worthy, president of the Commercial Loan and Trust Company, also of the Metropolitan Railway, whose death is reported from New York, was one of the foremost business men of Chicago. Formerly a member of the Board of Lincoln Park Commissioners, he was at the time of his death one of the Arree directors of the House of Correction and chairman of the board, and also held many other official positions of public trust. He was one of the brganizers of both the Union League and Majouette clubs. Though requested many times to do so, he invariably refused to accept any remunerative political office. Worthy was born in England, August 12. 1841, and has been in this country since he was 7 years old. He came to Chicago in 1860 without capital or influential friends and began a career here that has marked him as a successful business man. He enlisted in the One Hundred and Thirty-eighth Illinois Infantry and remained in it until the regiment was mustered out. His widow and two sons survive him.

Worthy's death was due to blood poisoning. Mr. Worthy with his wife and son Sidney went to Lakewood from Chicago about two weeks ago. Worthy was overworked and felt that he needed rest. Associated Press Leased-wire Scroice.

TACOMA, (Wash.,) Dec. 13.—L. Edmund
Stover of Fargo, N. D., who has reported more celebrated divorce cases during the past year than any other man in the country, is touring the Northwest. Fargo, has grown to be the Mecca which country, is touring the Northwest. Fargo, he says, has grown to be the Mecca which the unhappy married people of the country seem bent on reaching.

In talking on the subject of divorce in try seem bent on reaching.

In talking on the subject of divorce in North Dakota, he said: "The general public has little idea of the magnitude of this infant industry. The number of pilgrims reaches startling figures. A careful estimate recently on a visit to all the lawyers in the city places the number serving time preparatory to filing actions for separation at upwards of ninety. "These people are mostly residents of the East, New York and Boston furnishing the largest contingent. Naturally they are persons of wealth and prominence, who prefer to journey to the frontier to wash their dirty linen. Several untrafashionable hotels and boarding-houses of Fargo accept no patrons who are not members of the colony. The money spent in this city by these seekers of single blessedness reaches many thousands of dollars annually. To illustrate how diligently the court is kept at work to dispose of this array of variegated cases: During the hearing of the celebrated Hirschfield case recently concluded, Judge McConnell decided five other divorce cases. They were heard at odd moments during the early morning and noon hours."

Stover says that it must not be inferred that these pilgrims nominate Fargo as their Mecca because the courts of that city do not balance the scales of justice evenly. The reason, is that under the constitution of North Dakota, it requires but three months' residence prior to the announcement of an action for divorce. Among the many cases soon to be heard there is one which will shake New York from center to circumference. A prominent State official is the plaintiff, with Bourke Cockran as his counsel, and many leading New Yorkers are implicated. Judge W. B. McConnell, upon whom devolves the duty of hearing these cases, is an unusually acute judge, who has established a wide representance of his decisions. Were he not exceptionally keen of perception and quick in judgment, he would have to hold court day and night the year round to heaf them all.

from Marsland, a small town on the Bur lington and Northwestern extension, in the wild prairie region of Dawes county, gives meager particulars of an attempt at train-robbery, eight miles north of there, at an early hour this morning.

The engineer noticed red lights on the track and stopped, but at the moment the lights were extinguished and a party of ounted men could be heard riding swiftly away. The train was a freight. It is sup posed that when the would-be robbers dis covered this they rode off. The pass train occasionally carries large amounts o gold from the Black Hills section.

THE NAUGHTY MAN.

C. M. Howard Has to Answer to Two Criminal Charges.

Associated Press Leased-wire Service. KANSAS CITY (Mo.,) Dec. 13-Mrs. Fannie B. Howard has filed a suit in the Circuit Court for divorce from C. M. How ard, the alleged Portland (Or.) embezzler charging bigamy. Howard was secretary and treasurer of the Sunny Side Land and Improvement Company. He embezzled $25,000, it is al-leged, from that company in 1892 and fled to England. He returned to this country a few months later, and at Pender, Neb., met and married a Miss Fales. He was ar rested last winter and taken to Portland where he is now in jail.

The budget debate was resumed in the German Reichstag yesterday. During the course of a long speech, Dr. von Boetticher, the Secretary of State for the interior, said that he did not agree with the proposal to increase the income tax, and that he was strongly opposed to social democracy and anarchism.

By command of Queen Victoria, everything possible was done to make the funeral of Sir John Thompson, the Canadian Prime Minister., a national event. The Queen personally placed two wreaths upon the coffin. The procession was in the nature of a state cermonial. The body was placed on a train to be taken to London, where it will be embalmed, preparatory to removal to Canada. The Newfoundland government assumed office yesterday afternoon. It is made up as follows: Prime Minister and Attorney-General, Green: Colonial Secretary, Holwood; Thompson. Harvey, without portfolio, is leader in the Upper House. engineer, right leg cut off below the knee, hands and arms bruised.

The fund for the proposed statue in Central Park, New York, to Robert Emmet, the Irish patriot, which was launched a year ago, is very silm, and there is talk of the project being abandoned. The trouble is due to the internal dissensions among the various Irish patriotic associations, whose members were expected by the projectors to contribute to the fund. Thomas Addis Emmet, a grand-nephew of the patriot, opposed the fund at the start, because of his ancestor's last request that his epitaph be not written until Ireland was free.

Sig. Blancherlo presided as usual in the Italian Chamber of Deputies Thursday. There was an exciting discussion in regard to the result of the inquiry made into the action of magistrates in connection with the Banco Roma affair. The Minister of Justice, Sig. Calenda, contended that those of the magistrates who had falled to do their duty had been punished. Sig. Glolitti defended the action of the Minister of Justice during his regime as Premier. The current chairman then discussed the speech from the throne, and there was considerable excitement in the House.

A COLORADO PROTEST. Bills for Pacific Railroad Reorganization Unsatisfactory. DENVER, Dec. 13. — The Chamber of Commerce is circulating for signatures a memorial to Congress, protesting against the passing of either of the bills pending in the Senate and House concerning the reorganization of the Union Pacific and Central Pacific Railroads for the following peasons; easons:

First—The bills are not in the interest

First—The bills are not in the Interest of the people living in the vast section of country concerned in the matter.

Second—They extend the payments to unreasonable time for a new country.

Third—The main consideration is how to recoup the stockholders of these lines.

Fourth—The stockholders of the branches of the Union Pacific will be cut off.

Fifth—They give the road undue power in developing or retarding any particular section of country.

Sixth—They bestow government credit on corporations to enable them to borrow money at 2 or 3 per cent, per annum.

The memorial closes with a petition that the government pay off the mortgages on these roads and operate them thereafter on a plan similar to that of the Postoffice Department, in order that the entire country may enjoy the benefits of an honey try may enjoy the benefits of an hones administration without discrimination.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

Shares and Money.

Associated Press Lesseis wire Favoics.

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.— Despite the announcement of the engagement of $3,500,600 in gold for shipment to Europe on Saturday next, the trend of values on the Stock Exchange was upwarf, and, with very few exceptions, the closing prices show an advance on the final sales of yesterday ranging from $463% per cent. The volume of business was very large, the transactions in Sugarbeing nearly two-thirds of the aggregate sales. London was a heavy seller of St. Paul at the opening, which depressed the stock temporarily, but here was good local buying in all the grangers to cover short contracts, which counteracted the influence of foreign selling in St. Paul. At the opening a firm tone prevalled in the general market, and except for a slight reaction at the end of the first quarter of an hour, prices, under the leadership of Sugar, continued to advance up to 11:30 o'clock. Cotton Oil common and preferred, Minneapolis and St. Louis preferred, Lake Shore and the grangers were also prominent in the market. The attack on Sugar checked the advancing movement, not alone in that stock, but in the market at large, and speculation turned into the afternoon rather heavy. Sugar was the first to shake off the depression, but after a recovery of 1% per cent. a reaction set in, in which all but ½ per cent. of the gain wallost. Lower figures brought buyers to the rescue and the stock again took an upturn followed by the rest of the shares traded in. Sugar fell off a fraction during the early part of the first hour, but became very strong in the final trading, making a gain of 1% per cent., while the preferred recorded an advance of 1 per cent. The general market was also in good tone in the late dealings, and closed strong at or within a small fraction of the best prices of the day. The bond market was firm and moderately active. A change of the prefer of the shares traded in Sugar fell off a fraction during the early for the same sugar follows. St. P. & O. C. pdf. 16. C. C. & St. L. 3% (Chicago Sa 7

SUMMARY.

Use and Abuse of Toothpicks.

Use and Abuse of Toothpicks.

(The Lancet:) The toothpick, judiciously used, is of undoubted value. Of the materials used as toothpicks the best is the quill, with the sharp point removed, but with this, as with all other forms, care must be observed. By indiscriminate application the gums may be so irritated and injured as to cause recession, and thus increase the existing trouble, or inflammation of the tooth membrane may be caused, a most annoying condition, and one in which the still more vigorous use of the toothpick gives temporary relief, only in reality to add fuel to the fire. Metal toothpicks are good because blun pointed, but are too thick to pass between teeth at all close together. Wood need only be mentioned to be condemned, for it is by no means an uncommon occurrence for small fibers to become detached and jammed between the socket and tooth, leading to chronic periositis and even loss of the tooth if the condition is not recognized.

All the World Ungrateful.

All the World Ungrateful.
(Washington Star:) France made several unkind remarks some years ago about the precrastination of Americans, apropos of the delay in preparing a suitable tomb for Gen. Grant. It is not to be argued that those words of reproach were unwarranted or undeserved. The citizens of New York were greatly remiss in this matter. But now comes word to show that critics are often blind to near-by faults. Victor Hugo's comin in the Pantheon of Paris rests today upon the temporary treatles upon which it was set on the day of his funeral, about ten years ago.

The Grievance Committee Report on a Couple of Cases—The Arena Boycott—Gompers, Refutes Debs's Denials.

Associated Press Leased-wire Service.

DENVER, Dec. 13.—In the Federal DENVER, Dec. 13.—In the Federation of Labor convention, this forencon, a printed discussion was precipitated by the report of the Resolutions Committee in favor of the adoption of a resolution introduced by Edward L. Daly of the Lasters' Union of Boston, asking Congress to pass a law making it an offense punishable by fine and imprisonment for any employer to employ during a strike or lockout of his employees aliens who have resided in the United States less than one year, or who have not expressed an intention of becoming American citizens.

Union, against land monopoly. The report was adopted.

A resolution asking the Secretary of War to have fish-traps removed from the Columbia River, according to existing law, was adopted. The Committee on Resolutions recommended the adoption of Delegate Lioyd's resolution in favor of free coinage of silver.

Treasurer Lennon objected to the preamble, because, he said, it assumed that all the trouble in this country was due to the demonitization of silver, and moved to strike out all except the bare declaration for the re-enactment of the coinage law. Lennon's amendment was agreed to after which the resolution was adopted.

The Committee on the President's Report submitted a report. It was recommended that May 1, 1896, be fixed for the general establishment of an eight-hour day. The proposal of compulsory arbitration was vigorously opposed. A delegate from Pennsylvania moved to strike out part of the report favoring the semi-annual conferences with the Knights of Labor, and made a strong speech condemnatory of that order. The consideration of that part of the matter was deferred until after the report of the Committee on Conference.

President Gompers read a dispatch from Chicago, containing an alleged interview with E. V. Debs, in which the latter denied having asked Gompers to aid him in the strike. Gompers explained that he had never said such a thing. "When, during the Chicago conference," said Gompers, "I asked him what would you have the Federation of Labor to do, he said: "If I were in your place I would order the workingmen of America all out."

A resolution against the issuance of money by monopolies was introduced by Delegate McGrath, and was referred to the Committee on Resolutions. It recommended the adoption of a resolution favoring State employment agencies and indorsing the

It recommended the adoption of a resolution favoring State employment agencies and indorsing the McGuire bill for the relief of seamen. Delegate Furuseth said the American seamen were subject to a worse system of involuntary slavery than was known elsewhere on earth. The matter was referred to a special committee consisting of John Nugent, W. D. Mahone and Mrs. T. J. Morgan, with instructions to formulate a plan to accomplish the result desired.

At the afternoon session of the convention the Grievance Committee reported on the grievance of theatrical employees against the Theatrical Protective Association of New York, recommending that the federation aid in the organization of the branch of the Theatrical Protective Association. The report was adopted. The committee also reported on the disagreement between the local Brewers' Union No. 13 of Chicago and the national organization, sustaining the national body and recommending that the back dues of the local union be paid in installments. The report brought on a lengthy discussion. Thomas J. Morgan offered an amendment that the matter be referred to the executive council.

Delegate Croke moved a substitute, saying that the federation had no jurisdiction. The substitute was lost and the amendment adopted.

The substitute was lost and the amendment adopted:

President Gompers announced the following appointments: John W. Bramwood, W. C. Pomeroy, Charles Greenhalge and John Ratigan as a special committee to consider the Phillips bill.

Hon. I. N. Stavens of Denver was introduced and defigered a short address on the "Recent Juditiar Decisions and Their Effect Upon the Development of Labor Organizations." He confined his remarks mostly to the action of Federal Labor Organizations." He confined his remarks mostly to the action of Federal courts in cases of railroads in the hands of receivers. He said that out of thirty decisions which he had examined, no two were at all alike, even on questions very similar. The decision of Justice Harian in reversing the decision of Judge Jenkins in the Pacific Railroad cases was the fairest. He said the system of receiverables was based upon no law, but upon custom, arising in courts of equity, and had long ago far exceeded the original intention. He advised the federation to direct its efforts to securing national and State legislation defining the rights and duties of corporations and of receivers of bankrupt companies.

The Grievance Committee reported on the Louisville Central Labor Union difficulty, sustaining President Gompers in his granting of the charter. The protest was from the Louisville Trades. Assembly which withdrew from the federation two years ago. The question was referred to the Executive Council for final settlement.

The Committee on Labels and Boycotts reported several decisions in support of local boycotts. Arong them were the Arena, which it was alleged, is printed by non-union men. Many delegates expressed regret at the negative of taking action against this periodical, which is regarded as a very able exposure of labor dockines, and the matter was finally referred to the Executive Council, with Instructiona to declare the boycott only after all means of bringing the publication into the union had falled.

An invitation was received from the Woman's Club to attend a reception to be given at the Albany Hotel tomorrow night, but upon the announcement that the Albany is not a union house, the invitation was declined.

Tomorrow's session will probably be one of the liveliest of the convention. At 10 o'clock the "political programme" is to come up. The plank over which the great fight is to come is No. 10. It is as to the collective ownership by the people of all means of production and distribution. This is supported by the socialistic members and they claim that, on a canvass made last night, it was found that they have a majority of 200 votes. It is probable that the opponents of the socialistic idea will, in the event that they find themselves outnumbered, try to secure the adoption of a substitute of a less radical nature.

It is believed that the discussion of this question and the vote upon it will have a strong bearing upon the election of a president. Gompers, Maguire, Prescott and others who have been suggested as candidates are known to oppose plank Ne. 10, while the mine-workers are its strongest advocates. John McBride, president of the latter organization, who gave Gompera a close race last year, is being boomed again; and although he is not here his friends are working for him early and late, and they claim that his election is certain.

To the committee sent to invite him to speak, he stated that, owing to the great press of work, he would not be able to prepare an address, but would send a letter setting forth his views on some of the matters treated in the "political programme," which is to be considered at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. His letter will be read at that time.

THE LARGEST FIRE KNOWN IN

Cattle Ranges Turned to a Scorcher Desert-Herois Efforts of a Few Men Save the Country Toward Amerillo.

Associated Press Leased-wire Service.

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.,) Dec. 13.—A letter from L. H. Holman, ranchman of Deane, Tex., says that the largest and most destructive fire known in years has swept over a large portion of the place and is still burning to the south. It began near Pecos River, just this side of Fort Sumner, two weeks ago, and burned to the southeast, taking in the large pastures of Ray Bros., Doliver Bros., and others and a large amount of open range. to the southeast, taking in the large pastures of Ray Bros., Doliver Bros., and others and a large amount of open range. Then the wind turned and blew a gale, driving a solid breast of fire from fifty to seventy-five miles long to the east. The best of horses could not outstrip the fire. It crossed the Escarbade division of the Capital Syndicate pasture, cleaning out the greater portion of the range. If it had not been for the heroic efforts of a few men along the fire guards and west of La Plata the whole country toward Amerillo would have been burned. As it was, the fire was forced to the south, and crossed the guard in the south part of Smith and Castro counties. The line of fire was forced east nearly through Smith county until it struck Randall county, when it turned to the northeast once more. How far it burned east is not known, but it is supposed to have reached the front of the plains.

A strong norther came up, driving the fire line, extending from the banks of Pecos River on the west to a point far east, supposed to be the eastern edge of the plains to the south. This solid breast of fire, sweeping south was not less than twenty-five miles long. How far in this direction it went is not known here, but last night a dark, huge bank of smoke was still seen rolling up from the south. The greater portion of the vast area included in the outlines of the fire was burned clean.

CHRISTMAS IN HARD TIMES.

CHRISTMAS IN HARD TIMES.

A Few Timely Hints on the Art of (Minneapolis Times:) Thanksgiving day is hardly past before Christmas looms up on the horizon. The half-planned preparations must begin in good earnest. Usually Christmas is the holiday anticipated days of the year. But this year St. Nicholas himself appears like something of a monster. Where are Christmas trees and full stockings to come from when the agents of the dear old saint have so much difficulty in collecting his good-natured taxes? His pack will be lighter than usual this year and his reindeers will have a shorter night's gallop.

The children are beginning to taik of their great expectations, while their elders are puszling over impossible ways and means of realising them and discharging the social obligations the season brings. To many a family accustomed to some little celebration, Christmas this season will be but a name. Sensible people among the many who will observe the day, will recognize it as a hard-times Christmas and make the best of it from that rational standpoint. They will lay aside false pride and love of display, and enjoy themselves in homesty fashion. It is neither justice standpoint. They will lay aside false pride and love of display, and enjoy themselves in homely fashion. It is neither justice nor true-charity to give good gifts with debts unpsid.

This season offers a favorable opportunity to introduce a few much-needed reforms in the celebration of Christmas. The sxchange of holiday courtesies is a delightful custom which circumstances favor and the right spirit prompts. But otherwise it is barbarian commerce. Extravagance is not justified by generosity. A meager purse emptied in a gift is none the less emptied, and Peter is none the less obbed because Paul is paid. Christmas is not rightly celebrated when money is spent which can be ill-afforded. Lavish presents are always in bad tasts. They is spent which can be ill-afforded. Lay presents are always in bad taste. The are ostentatious, and they place the rec presents are always in bad tasts. They are ostentatious, and they place the recipient under an unsought obligation, whether the donor wills or not. The best gift is simple but peculiarly appropriate and distinctive. It suggests the giver and is a personal compliment to the recipient. The other extreme from lavishness is equally deplorable. The down-pouring of anomalous knic-knacks in crewels and oaints, crepe paper and lace precipitated by Christmas, has become a nulsance—a nuisance that should be regulated by law, if necessary. To give as a matter of form, from habit, or in payment of obligations is also a travesty on giving. It is becoming a real and a heavy burden to custom-worshippers and should be shaken off from honest self-respecting shoulders. One of the results of this battle-door and shuttle-cock system of generosity is that people receive about in proportion to their ability to give. Gifts are showered upon those who do not need them, while the needy are unremembered.

There are three classes to whom Christmas peculiarly belongs. First of all, there are the children. It is the children's holiday, and presents and pleasures at Christmastide are their birthright. There are the children. It is the children's holiday, and presents and pleasures at Christmastide are their birthright. There are the children. There are the poor to whom Christmas cheer means everything. Poverty offers the best field for "glad tidings of great joy."

A Strange Suit.

A Strange Suit.

(New York Sun:). Prince Victor Napoleon is the defendant in a strange law suit before a Paris court. In 1889 his father, Price Jerome Bonaparte, was crossing from Ostend to Dover on the Comtesse de Flandre, when she was run into by the Princess Henriette. After the collision the Prince sent his valet, who had been with him more than thirty years, into the cabin to fetch some of his property, when the steamer's holler exploded, and the valet was mortally wounded. His son brought a suit against the Prince on the ground that it was by his order that his father had gone into the place where he was injured, and after Jerome's death his son inherited the lawsuit. Prince Victor cannot appear in person before the judges, as, being a claimant to the throne, he is forbidden to enter French territory.

Michael Moran, who is in the towing business for the city, was asked: "What commissioner put you at the work?"

Ponce Captain T. J. Creedon was the next witness. He wtated that he joined the police force in 1864. He was made a captain in 1892. Goff reviewed the record of Capt. Creedon, which was shown to have been very enviable.

Goff added that he had the greatest-confidence in the integrity and honor of the witness, and he hoped the witness would see fit to tell the whole truth.

"I never paid any money for my captaincy," said Capt. Creedon, slowly. He relierated this denial in whatever form the query was put 50 him. Capt. Creedon admitted that he had borrowed $1000 from Mr. Howard and another thousand from Mr. McGurkin.

William Snell, a real estate dealer, was next called. Mr. Snell is the man who deposited the $15,000, which it is alleged was paid for the captaincy. It was received January 24, 1892. The wfiness said he received money under the impression that he was stakeholder for a bet. He never inquired what was the nature of the bet. Witness said he got the money from Rourke, and paid it to Rapenhagen on Rourke's order.

John W. Rapenhagen was called to the stand. After trying to get from the witness how he had spent the $15,000 which had been given him, Goff said: "Mr. Chairman, I think it disgraceful to continue an examination for this creature to sit in that stand and lie the way he is doing." The witness was dismissed with the injunction to produce his bankbook tomerrow.

Harry Miner, the theatrical manager and Congressman-elect from the Ninth District. was the next witness. He testified that he had given his check for $1000, and this money, he understood, was for Capt. Creedon's benefit, and Capt. Creedon gave him notes for the money.

"And have they been paid?"

"Not fully. Capt. Creedon has paid me some money every month, and I pay it out to those people who made up the $15,000."

"Did he pay this money to you himself?"

"Did he pay this money to you him-self?" Miner said he would produce all his books and papers in court tomorrow, and the committee then adjourned.

Barnaud-Burns Fight GALVESTON (Tex.,) Dec. 13.—The Bernaud-Burns glove contest was a one-sided affair. Burns was counted out in the second round. He frequently went down to avoid punishment, and was wholly outclassed. Bernaud is more than anxious to meet Dan Creedon for $2500 a side, and negotiations to that end are under way.

College-bred Brutality.

(New York World:) It is announced that the faculties of both Yale and Harvard will probably take steps to put a stop to such exhibitions of deliberate brutality as have disgraced recent football games. It is added, however, that 'nothing will be done until after the close of the season'—which means, we suppose, that if the public can be educated into toleration of such a scandalous exhibition of brutality the thrifty faculties of our "great institutions of learning" are not disposed to interfere with anything that gives them free advertising.

But the indications are that the public will not much longer tolerate it. The police of Chicago have just interfered to break up a game in that city. Here in the East, although noses have been broken, eyes nearly gouged out, legs fractured, shoulder blades crushed and the worst atroctities of which deliberate ruffanism is capable inflicted in full view of the public, the police have done nothing to keep peace and enforce the laws by which civilization seeks to maintain itself.

Perhaps they are waiting to see if college faculties will not replace football by College-bred Brutality.

some milder form of brutality—as protes-sional prize-fighting, for instance. And why should they not? They can get al-most if not quite as much free advertis-ing out of it, and prize-fighting is a hu-mane-recreation, compared with such football as we have just witnesses auspices of Yale and Harvard.

The place is occupied by M. P. Snyder as a shoe store. Some one had pulled the ashes from a stove into a box, and the coals had eaten through. Just as Smith walked along the whole box broke into a blaze and a large hole was burned in the floor. Smith broke in the door, got several bucketfuls of water from a sink and extinguished the flames before any of the infiammable goods could get a start.

these was the one he had taken there, as it was a common pint wine bottle that he took in. Henry Ingham next took the stand, had known Salter for about two years. Had visited Salter last time on Tuesday on business with Judge Gregg. Salter said that he was pretty ill at that time, but seemed cheerful, especially as respects to the case. He took some writing paper and stamps. Had received a letter to his father, Frederick Salter, Upper Halleford, Inspperton, on Thames, England. Salter seemed melancholy at times and said that confinement in the jail was injuring his balth. Had taken Salter cigars at times, but never anything else, either upon his sewn account or for any one else.

J. F. Tabor, turnkey at the jail, was next called. He said that Salter had been quite sick for several days, and upon the day of his death was very nervous and kept his bed much of the time. Observed that his brain was affected yesterday afternoon, seeming dazed, and unable to tell what day of the week it was. He complained of a pain in the head. Thought the medicine which Dr. Bayliss had sent had stopped his cough too quickly and he would take no more of it. He did not cough at all yesterday. In his nervousness he had disarranged his bunk greatly and witness had straightened it up for him. Upon visiting him again after feeding time he looked so poorly witness asked if he should not call a physician, but Salter replied that he did not want a doctor, as he would soon be all right. The aext time witness went to the cell was about 7:30 when Salter seemed the same. He had two prisoners watch him and went for a physician, but did not succeed in finding one, but later Drs. Bayliss and Hazlett were secured. They pronounced the man dying, and tried to revive him, but without succees, and Salter died at 11 o'clock ing one, but later Drs. Bayliss and Hazlett were secured. They pronounced the man dying, and tried to revive him, but without success, and Salter died at 11 o'clock or a few minutes after. The visitors to Balter yesterday were Judge Gregg, his attorney, and F. C. Hoogstraat. On Monday Mrs. Cropley and her two sisters, the Misses Kurtz, visited him. He knew of mothing having been taken to Salter by them. Letters were taken to Salter by them. Letters were taken to Salter by officers of the jail. He did not permit visitors to carry things to prisoners if he could avoid it.

F. C. Hoogstraat was again upon the stand and stated that Salter asked him to come again to see him on Saturday. He also remarked several times about his breath smelling bad.

H. E. Lewis, an Inmate of the County Jail was next on the stand. He did not seen anything taken to Salter except by the officers of the jail. Mr. Brown and Mr. Tabor had been very attentive to the the prisoners well supplied with tobacco.

Dr. Bayliss was next called and gave a detailed count of his freating Salter dur-detailed salter day.

the prisoners and kept the prisoners well supplied with tobacco.

Dr. Bayliss was next called and gave a detailed account of his treating Salter during the past year for consumption. For several days past Dr. Hazlett, his partner, had been treating him. About 11 o'clock last night he was called and found the man in a dying condition. The symptoms were such as produced by opium or morphine poisoning. He died soon after his arrival. At the autopsy it was found that he had apparently died from the effects of opium or some of its salts, though the blood would indicate that other causes might have combined. The opiate must have been taken in a big and poisonous dose. The appearance, however, was not one of morphine poisoning alone. He may have taken the drug in several doses, but within several hours.

Officer Heap was next on the stand, and testified to Salter's having appeared very cheerful during the day, though he looked poorly.

Coroner Thompson then read two letneerful during the day, though he looked borly.

Coroner Thompson then read two letters found upon the person of Salter, hey were written with a lead pencil and badly folded and blurred. They were a his vest pocket, and addressed "My lear Kate," evidently Mrs. Kate Barnes, is associate in the crime of poisoning am W. Barnes. One of the letters was ery short, and the other covered four ages of commercial note paper. It was outsided in most endearing terms, and unplored her in most beseeching language to be brave, keep up courage and do as he had promised him she would. He autioned her to be wary of Brown (eviently Jailer Brown,) as he was against or as well as him (Salter.) He assured er that all would yet be well, and they fould be happy.

The verdict of the Coroner's jury was tast John Salter died from poison self-dministared.

Meeting of the Board of Directors

More Money Needed.

A meeting of the board of directors of the Associated Charities was held yesterday afternoon in their rooms at the Court-

At 3:15 o'clock the meeting was called to order by William Pridham, who presided. The roll was called, the following members being present: Mmes. Bath, Ducom-mon, Griffith, Misses Wills, Cash, Messrs. Newmark, Mesmer, Patterson, Stewart and read by the secretary, Mr. Stewart; also the minutes of the meeting of the central council, and were approved.

Reports were called for, but there were none to submit.

Mr. Pridham gave a brief verbal account of the memorial to the City Council. At the last meeting of the Associated Charities a committee was appointed to confer with the City Council and request them to formulate a plan, by which some means of labor could be found for the unemployed, and also to erect a building for their use while they needed it. The committee was met most courteously, and another committee was appointed by the City Council to meet with them, and talk the matter over, which meeting will take place today.

It was then moved that Mrs. J. Johansen and Mrs. H. C. Sphor be made honorary members of the central council of the Associated Charities. Both of these ladies have worked leng and faithfully in the cause of charity, and, indeed, the extent of their labor can hardly be realized or appreciated. Mrs. Johansen is a member of the German Benevolent Society, which does a great deal to raiseve the sufferings of the poor. This motion was passed by a unanimous vote.

The following committee was appointed to solicit funds for the Associated Charities, and the meeting adjourned: Mrs. Griffith, Miss Cash, Miss Fanny Wills, Messrs. Mesmer, J. T. Newkirk and Newmark.

Special Sale Cloaks and Furs at a Big Reduction.

N EARLY everybody at this season of the year will economize in their regular purchases in order to have more money to buy Christmas presents with; there is no doubt about the saving we will make you in your purchases of cloaks and dress goods. A good solid reduction is being made in both departments. The sales in both departments have been very large since this reduction. Every article in have been very large since this reduction. Every article in the cloak department is being sold at a big reduction from the regular price; it is not a slight reduction but a reduction that will pay you well to consider. It is a well-known fact that we carry the largest stock of popular priced wraps in the city. We advertise nothing that we do not live up to. We endeavor to make our advertising readable without exaggeration. To make it reliable in every way. Without this, advertising does not pay. On the first day of January we are to begin great improvements in the interior of the store. The stocks for spring will be the most extensive we have ever carried and with this object in view we are cutting the prices on every wrap of every kind in the house. All the new furs, coats and capes are included in the big reduction as well as the largest line of children's wraps we have ever carried. This is the best month in the year for cloak profits as a usual thing, and in the midst of the most profitable season we are cutting the prices on every garment of every kind in the house. We have an object in view. To save money examine the goods, examine the style and what is still better, examine the prices. But remember this means the cash must come with the sale. If you care to save money on dress goods we are in a position at the present time to do this for you. We are selling two lines of dress goods at 50c and 75c a yard. The 50c line comprises all goods that have been selling from 60c to 85c a yard. They are mostly plain colors in the most staple class of goods. The second line is the largest and best line that has ever been shown for the money. The regular price is and has been from $1 to $2 a yard. Now the choice is 75c. They are the best dress goods bargains you ever saw. There is one thing to remember. The cash must come with the sale. Canes free with a $5 purchase. Remnants of silks and velvets for fancy work at a big reducion. You cannot well consider the price either on cloaks or dress goods without seeing the quality, the styles and the character of the goods. This is important to you.

MUSICAL MENTION.

The Chevaller de Kontski, whose recital was to have taken place last week and was postponed, played Wednesday evening to a good audience in Bartiett's Music Hall. He was assisted by Miss Jennie Kempton, vocalist, and Miss Margaret Eerth, violinist. De Kontski is undoubtedly a fine musician and thoroughly demonstrated the fact last evening. His chief charm lies in his extreme delicacy of touch, which at the same time is not lacking in power. Miss Margaret Berth rendered two very good selections, and was heartily applauded. Besides possessing considerable talent, she has a charming presence, which adds considerable to the performance. "Miss Jennie Kempton was well received. Following is the programme: Second sonata F minor, (a) "Andante Religioso," (b) "Finale Furioso" (he Kontski. THE SANDE RECITAL

A large audience greeted Henri Sande at his first appearance in Blanchard-Fitz-gerald Hall last evening. Mr. Sande has gerald Hall last evening. Mr. Sande has a tenor voice of the true robusto quality, and sings with a great deal of smoothness and finish. He comes to the city with very high testimonials from Paris, his 'ormer residence. He was assisted by Mrs. J. M. Jones, harpist, and Arnold Krauss. Following was the programme:

Violin solo, "Habanera" (Spanish dance) (Sarasate)—Arnold Krauss.

Harp solo—Mrs. J. M. Jones.

"Wenn ich an Dich Gedenke" (B. Hamma)—Henri Sande.

"Tell Her I Love Her So" (P. de Faye)—Henri Sande.

Art Association.

A meeting of the Art Association of Southern California was held Wednesday evening in their rooms, No. 110 West Sec-ond street. The feature of the evening evening in their rooms, No. 110 West Second street. The feature of the evening was the interesting paper read by Mme. Rose Weisecke on the works of Raphael, which demonstrated considerable research and evident familiarity with her subject, in which she was aided by her long residence in Rome. The paper consisted of a brief sketch of the artist's life, his religious and secular work, dwelling particularly on the "Marriage of Cupid and Psyche." The reading was very much enjoyed by those present.

The subject of the purchase of the Polish pictures for the city and the possibility for retaining them for a public gallery, was discussed with considerable enthusiasm. Several feasible schemes were presented by the members, but none were definitely adopted. In order that every effort should be made to aid the purchase of these pictures by appealing to the public spirit of our citizens, the meeting resolved into a committee of the whole, with a working committee composed of Prof. Judson, Messrs. Lüdevici and Macleod, Misses Casey and King.

Assemblyman Bulla Explains Som of its Features.

(San Francisco Chronicle:) The many land lawyers in this city, the searchers of records, and the notaries public have been in a state of fiftul excitement recently whenever thoughts of the Torrens registry law came to them. Their day dreams became nightmares at the hour when graveyards yawn and their sufferings has been intense. They have had visions of penury and pauperism and vistas of the poerhouse should the law be enacted, but according to the views of the commission that was appointed to investigate the law as it is enforced in Australia, and to frame a similar law for use and action in this State, their fears are ground-less. The one particular man who will suffer is the County Recorder. That office will be abolished.

The commissioners met yesterday after-will be abolished.

The commissioners met yesterday afternoon at the Grand Hotel, those present being Mr. Adams, Elliott McAllister and R. N. Bulla of Los Angeles, the framer of the new bill. Mr. Bulla in an interview stated: "There is really no cause for worriment on the part of hand lawyers searchers and notaries, for the simple reason that there is really nothing to worry about, owing to the fact that the contents of the new bill for use in this State have not been given to the public and cannot be divulged until after our next meeting, which will be late in December, and that meeting will probably be held in Sacramento. There are many provisions in the bill still to be considered and acted upon when the full board is in session. The new bill will contain many radical changes in order to fit it to the requirements of the existing laws of the State of California, and furthermore it will not be a compulsory law. Hence when a land transfer is to be made the applicant can secure his title either under the present system or the new one. There will be no Registrar, as the matter of title will come before the Superior Court, but I cannot now explain the course of procedure. This is all of the information that I, representing the commissioners, can give on the subject at present."

"NOT GUILTY."

That is What "Kid" Thomp son Will Plead.

He Positively Denies that He Assisted in the Roscoe Robberies.

Alva Johnson Tells a Pathetic Story Ungratefulness on the Part of His Brothers—His Statement.

When "Kid" Thompson was asked to make a confession yesterday, he said, in emphatic terms, that he had nothing to divulge, and that he would see his interrogaters in a warmer climate than Southern California before he would become a self-accused train-wrecker.

The fact that Johnson has told all about the Roscoe robberies has not had the effect of causing Thompson to become dispirited in the least. The prisoner, who is jointly charged with the Tejunga rancher, with the crime of train-robbery, stoutly maintains that he is innocent.

"It's all a job," he said to a Times reporter last evening, in the corridor of the County Jail, "and I think that I can bring witnesses to prove that I was not at Roscoe on either of the nights the trains were held up. When the first robbery happened I was here in town. There would be no trouble about proving where I was, if they had only arrested me sooner. It's hard to remember so far back, and witnesses can't do it very well.

"One of the papers said that I had knowledged being in one of the rob-eries. I did no such thing, and don't ropose to plead guilty to anything that didn't do. I never was concerned in a nak robbery in New Mexico, and didn't now that any had been committed until out on a ranch at the time the second Roscoe robbery took place.

"When did you become acquainted with Etzler?" asked the reporter.
"Why, out in Arizona. I was with a boy named Tupper, and we were coming from the Consolidated Canal. We were riding on a wagon, when we passed a drove of bulls. A man named Bacon was on horseback, driving the bulls, and Etzler was walking along helping him. As we were about to pass. Etzler called out and threw up his hand. We thought that he was calling us, and got out of the wagon and went over to where he was. He said that he was motioning to the other man to stop, that he was sick. Anyhow the kid (Tupper) and I helped him into Phoenix, and Tupper nursed him for several days. That was the first time I ever saw Etzler. Afterward we went to Tempe, and Etzler went with us. I got a job on a hay press.

ETZLER HAD THE MONEY. The 'kid' told me that Etzler had

"The 'kid' told me that Etzler had shown him some money, Mexican money, and had asked him to help get it changed. Etzler never spoke to me about it, and I never saw the money."

"What do you suppose Johnson thought that he would gain by mixing you up in this trouble, if you were not guilty?" queried the reporter.

"I think it's all a job to shield some one else. I did work for Johnson at his corral for two months or more."

"Did the District Attorney want you to plead guilty?"

"They asked me to make a confession and I told them that I had no confession to make; that I wasn't going to plead guilty to something I had nover done. The officers claim that they were hunting for me ever since the last robbery. I was right here in the city until about a month after that robbery. After that I went to Arizona, and was around with the candidate for Sheriff and several others in Markopa county. I never shot at a man in my life. I came to this State from Arizona a year ago last July."

During the recital of his story Thompson reiterated the statement several times that he had never acknowledged to any

from Arisona a year ago last July."
During the recital of his story Thompson reiterated the statement several times that he had never acknowledged to any one that he had been concerned in either robbery. He was in a cheerful frame of mind, and spoke in a clear and unhestating manner. His tace had been freshly shaven, which heightened the sharp lines of his features. When brought out from the middle tank to meet the reporter, he wore nothing but trousers, shoes and a negligee shirt, a cowboy hat completing his attire.

negligee shirt, a Cowooy hat the his attire.

He looked as though he meant it when he said that he would never plead guilty nor confess to having been concerned in the Roscoe robberles.

Thompson and Johnson were brought into Department One to plead yesterday morning, but, on motion of the District Attorney, the time for that ceremony to be completed was continued again to this worning.

HE SHED TEARS.

Johnson Broke Down When He Told

The ragged edges of the world have undoubtedly rubbed hard upon the life of Alva Johnson. The hardened and grizsied rancher broke down and cried last night as he told the reporter how he had been led into crime after many years of honest toll. His broken-hearted wife sat honest toll. His broken-hearted wife sat beside him during the interview and, al-though she told him not to cry, and en-deavored to help him over the trying pas-sages, it was a hard trial for her. John-son has aged many years in appearance since being confined in the jail, and his aboulders are bowed under the weight of his trouble.

HAD STONY HEARTS. It seems that the ungrateful, envious and mercenary spirit of his brothers was what drove him to the point of becoming a law-breaker and that if the weight of what drove him to the point of becoming a law-breaker and that if the weight of guilty conscience was to be considered by the law in estimating the enormity of the offense, these same brothers would be standing today behind prison bars in his stead.

Alva Johnson unburdened his mind of the whole matter last night, and dwelt tearfully upon the pathetic details of unhappy family relations.

"I don't think that I could have been induced to have robbed the train at all," he began, "if it had not been that I thought the company had ill-treated me. I worked down in New Mexico for a railroad company and they did not pay me for my work. I have been told since that it was not the Southern Pacific Company, but I didn't know that before. When I left Arizona I came to Los Angeles and went to the Tejunga to work. At that time my folks did not have anything at all; they were very poor. They moved up to where I was working, too, and got all my wages for a long time. I worked for Mr. Phillipe, who is now my wife. My brothers were opposed to my marrying. They tried to beat me out of some water and my wife was obliged to bring a suit to save our property. We won the suit and got everything we asked for, which showed that we were in the right. I was anxious to keep out of trouble and came down and bought a feedyard, thinking that we could get along better.

CAUSED THE BABY'S DEATH. "It was this trouble with my folks that caused my little baby's death." Here the tears began to trickle from Johnson's eyes, and, despite the brave words from his faithful wife, it was several moments before he was able to go on. When he did, he said: "The baby was born just after the trouble and there was something the matter with its heart. The doctor said that it was caused by the worry my wife had gone through.

"While at the feedyard this man Thompson came along and wanted work. I didn't have any to give him, but told him that he could stay around and do something for his grub if he wanted to. He was going with the Salvation Army and appeared like a man who had lived a rough life, but who was trying to do better. I let him stay at the yard. He found out how I was yere did against the railroad and took that advantage to work me up to committing the first robbery. He first wanted to rob a Pasadene bank, but I refused to flisten to him. He finally hit upon the plan of robbing the train. He used to say that the trains always carried about $50,000 in money north."

A THIRD MAN.

Johnson here detailed the plans carried out by which the trains were robbed, in the same substance as was narrated in The Times yesterday morning. He brought out a new feature of the case when he said that a third man had helped Thompson make the bombs used, but could neither remember the man's name nor describe his personal appearance.

This was a singular circumstance.

He further said that he had only undertaken the second robbery because he thought Thompson could not be persuaded to leave the country whies he did. He had wanted to turn back several times at the critical moments, but was compelled to go on by his companion.

Johnson was particularly anxious that it should be distinctly understood that by making a confession he hoped for no reward.

"I would rather hang than spend my life in prison," he said in conclusion.

The quiet woman dressed in gray by his side looked apprehensively at him in a frightened sort of way as he spoke these words, but only gave expression through the eyes to the agony she felt.

LETTERS TO THE TIMES. What Can We Do?

What Can We Do?

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 11.—(To the Editor of The Times:) Hundreds of unemployed, some honest, some dishonest, some Christian, some christian, some criminal, are at our very doors—some begging, some stealing. What can we do to better their condition, to protect society; to shield our homes? Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst says: "The exconvict returns to crime, not because he is incorrigibly wicked, but because the church has no heart and society has no use for a man who has been in jail. If your fellow falls into a pit, you will help him out, but if he falls into a moral hole and struggles to the surface, society kicks him back."

A young man stood up in the Pacific Gospel Union tent the other night, and said: "Boys, I left home, came to Bakersfield: no money, no work! I slept in a barn, was arrested, and let go. O boys, I felt the disgrace. I have been to this tent four nights. I am resolved, from this time forth, to serve God." He is a representative of a large class of discouraged, mistaken youth, who have made a wrong start. A cup of coffee, a silce of dry bread, followed by a bright gospel song service, touched his heart, brought him to his senses, turned his life from wrong to right. Instead of becoming a criminal, an expense to the county, he becomes an industrious, sober producer. That meal for 140 persons cost about $1.80. Was it not a moral police force, worth more to the county than the policeman, who watched the meal, and safd: "It's a d——n shame to feed those men."

policeman, who watched the meal, and safd: "It's a d—n shame to feed those men."

Men are turned out of the city. Sixteen of the French "macs" were given ninety-day floaters by Justice Austin. They will either steal their supper or beg it. Instead of giving each 10 cents, or taking them to a restaurant and paying 15 cents or more, would it not be a public benefit to give them a ticket for a 5-cent meal, a cup of coffee and some bread, at a place where order is kept, and the gospel preached? Is such a work beneficial or detrimental to the community? Will it prevent stealing, or will it encourage idleness? A bank president told me: "When I come across a case, I take him to a restaurant, put down the money and tell them to feed the person until the money is used up.

Indiscriminate charity does harm, but careful, studious handling of this class may prevent many from being criminals and may turn many from a criminal life. For a week the Pacific Gospel Union has tried the experiment of furnishing a simple meal of coffee and bread only, to all who had a ticket, and numbers have come, and have remained to a gospel meeting, and fifteen promised, before God and man, to lead a new life. Seventy have found employment. One was an architect of good character, steady habits, who, out of money, accepted, with thanks, a cup of coffee and a silce of dry bread. Surely such a meal will not encourage idleness. May not this matter be thoroughly discussed?

ART NOTES.

Elmer Wachtel, the talented young arart lovers in this city, is lying seriously in the court of that building a fine display of his paintings are on exhibition and for ill at his room in the Bryson Block, while in the court of that building a fine display of his paintings are on exhibition and for sale, either at auction or private sale. It is a rare opportunity for obtaining really fine pictures, and also for aiding a most deserving young man, who, while struggling with ill health, is yet endeavoring to care for the mother and staters who are dependent upon him.

Among the paintings on exhibition are many beautiful landscapes—views in water colors and oil, into which he has put the soul of nature herself, till one can almost catch the melody of running streams and the sighing of the soft breezes above rippling waters, together with the warmth of the mellow sunset lights.

Among this choice array of pictures are two which received especial attention and favorable comment at the Midwinter Fair, and the unstinted praise of the well-known artist, william Keith, than whom there it no better judge of true art. These are "The Sunny Road," a painting noticeable for its marvelous perspective, warmth and fine color, in it you seemingly look miles away into dim distance where purpling lights fall, and a transparent haze touches the beautiful hills. In the foreground are tall trees, by the roadside, dropping cool shadows, but the sun has touched the yellow sands of the highway and bathed the gray rocks in tender lights, and one feels the summer stillness brooding over all.

"Mt. Tamalpais" is another which was greatly admired by Mr. Keith and others. The rosy glow of the sunset light falls upon the mighty mountain's side; the stream below is limpid and cool; the vast boulders nestle upon its side, touched with the gray shadows of the approaching night; the shrubbery is gracefully massed, and leans to catch the breath of evening; the blue sky has a few fleecy cloud-wanderers. It is nature in a dream of enchanting foveliness and repose.

There are many other fine paintings of marine and river views, old missions, etc., and these will be sold either at auction or private sale both today an

THE CITY'S HEALTH.

Annual Report of Doctor Powers.

Review of Sanitary and Other Work Done by the Department.

A More Extended Inspection of Foods is Urged—Plumbing Provisions Should be Changed— Other Matters.

Health Officer Powers presented his annual report at a meeting of the Board of Health held yesterday afternoon. The document contains a quantity of interesting statistics compiled from the records of the office for the twelve months ending December 1, and also a brief review of the work of the department for that period.

The total number of deaths occurring in the city during the year was 1182 which, on a basis of 75,000 population, makes the death rate 15.76 per 1000. Of the deaths death rate 15.76 per 1000. Of the deaths 212 were caused by specific infectious diseases, and 324 by diseases of the respiratory organs. Of the decedents 269 were of persons who had resided in the city less than one year, and 89 of the 269 deaths were caused by consumption or tuberculosis. There were 161 deaths certified to by the Coroner. There were 160 deaths of children under the age of one year, and 36 of children between the ages of one and two years.

There were reported 1211 births, of which number 71 were still births, and 35 of which latter number were reported without any assigned cause.

There has not been a single case of without-any assigned cause.

There has not been a single case of smallpox in the city during the year. There were reported 71 cases of typhoid fever, 43 of which were fatal. An effort has been made to ascertain the origin of source of infection of every case reported, but efforts in this direction have not been successful.

out enorts in this direction have not been successful.

Of infectious diseases there were 261 cases reported, for which the houses were placarded. Of these 115 were of scarled fever, only one of which proved fatal. The cases of this disease have been extremely placarded. Of these 115 were of scarlet fever, only one of which proved fatal. The cases of this disease have been extremely milld.

The number of cases resulting from diphtheria was 146, of which 37 proved fatal. It is believed that the increased number of cases of diphtheria may be ascribed to the extreme dryness of the season, causing aurface water to seep into wells carrying with it the filth, and to the disturbance and filling of old cesspools and privy vaults in consequence of the construction of sewers. The use of cups and towels in common in the public schools cannot be too severely condemned. "I have endeavored," the report reads, "to make a personal examination of infected premises, but other business pressing prevented me from giving this importance demanded. The inspection and disinfection of these buildings should be done by a physician who is conversant with sanitation, and the nature and character of infectious diseases.

"During the year I have attended at their dwellings 450 indigent sick persons. I made it a rule to send to the free dispensary all those who were able to go there."

The frequent inspections of meat markets and slaughter houses has had a beneficial effect upon the quality of meat approper, provisions for cleanliness or dainage. The Meat Inspector has been faithful to his duty. The city is in great need of a public market place for the sale of meats, fruits, vegetables, etc., in order that these foods may be kept in good condition and from off the streets and sidewalks where they receive coatings of dust and dirt. All food should be systematically inspected.

"Since the first inspection of milk not long ago, there has been a great improvement in the quality of that article supplied to the city. Gravity tests for butter fat, have been made, but evaporating and other chemical tests should be added.

There is a good milk ordinance, but inspection by a competent and reliable veterinarian, with proper authority to enforce the ordinance, of dairies, milch cows and the handling and care worthy the object, and should be repisced by suitable buildings for the reception of persons suffering from infectious diseases, who have no home, and are but illy-provided for, and too often not quarantined, in lodging-houses or tenement buildings. The pesthouse keeper, John Keyes, deserves credit for the cleanly manner in which he has kept the building.

During the year the inspectors have investigated and ordered the ebatement of 7518 nuisances. In order to be able to hold each inspector responsible for his work, the city was divided into three districts, as follows: District No. 1, south of Temple and East First streets, district No. 3, south of First streets and east of Main.

The Health Office has until recently been without a valid ordinance to work under. The greater portion of the plumbing constructed in buildings more than four years ago, is unsanitary. As the department has not had in its employ a practical plumbing inspector, it has been unable to cause a great improvement in the plumbing of the old buildings. The inspection and acceptance of all plumbing should be under the supervision of the Board of Health. During the first year, the plumbing ordinance being repealed, the department had no authority to order or compel property-owners to connect their buildings with sewers and abolish cesspools and privy vaults, which put the department to a great disadvantage, and loss of labor and time. It is imperative that ample provision be made for a thorough and regular flushing and cleansing of the sewers.

In conclusion, the report compliments the secretary, J. O'Brien, for his efficiency.

The number of registrations in the office during the year were: Physicians, 273; pharmacists, 50; midwives, 10; plumbers, 135; dairymen, 51. The expenses of the office for the year were: Salaries, $7140; miscellaneous, $348.25; removal and disposal of dead animals, $3785.50; removal and disposal of garbage, $12,560. Fees amounting to $30 were collected for bodies shipped out of the State.

You will probably remember that the hills country created a great sensation in the seventies, on account of the gold discoveries, and people rushed into the diggings by the thousands. This Bill Gay was one of the early comers, and he located some fairly good ground in Deadwood Gulch in 1876, on which the town of Gayville was built. But Gay achieved his greatest notoriety in the summer of 1877 by the murder of a boy named Forbes. For this murder he was convicted and sent to the Detroit penitentiary for the term of eighteen months. But worse follows. On the expiration of his sentence and his return to Deadwood, about two hundred of his admirers, headed by a brass band, met him several miles out on the road, and escorted him into town, where, for the next thirty days, he was lionized as the hero of the gulch.

"Gay in those days was more of a saloon-keeper and bartender than miner, and, like all of us early arrivals in that country, had numerous 'prospect holes,' worth millions, but I doubt if he was ever really worth to exceed $5000.

Mr. Goodwin expressed his surprise when he picked up the moraling paper to find that he was to address the strange congregation. He apoke from the words, "Good Master, what shall I do that I may inherit eternal life?"

Here was a young man, said the speaker, who had plenty of money and friends, but was puzzled about eternal life. He heard of Christ. He rushed to the Master and said: "What shall I do that I may inherit eternal life?" When a man is in real earnest about salvation he is in a hurry. He knelt down lefore Christ. When told to keep the commandments he replied, "All these have I kept." He was a moral man Morality is not to be despised. But it is difficult to get a moral man saved. He thinks he is as good as some church members. Pity, him if he is not. There are church members in hell. Christ told him that he lacked one thing. It is not enough to be honest; not enough to be sober. "Ye must be born again." The sermon was an impressive one, and made a good impression. Rev. Edison's Daughter Learned in Science and Literature.

(Chicago Herald:) In the days of babyhood Miss Marion Edison, daughter of the world renowned inventor, was known as "Dot." The name has clung to her, though she is 22 years old, and it would he hard to imagine a woman less likely to be known by such a pet name. Miss Edison is built on massive lines, her type of beauty being purely classic, though essentially feminine. Altogether she is a splendid specimen of American womonhood. Her milk-and-rose-leaf complexion is her chief charm, if one charm can be said to predominate over another. Her hair, of Norman gold, is a formidable rival to it. It curis in soft ringlets next her face and is piled high in a psyche knot in the back. Miss Edison dresses in fault-less taste, never sacrificing the artistic to fashion, for Miss Edison has strong artistic tendencies. Her paintings have won her high praise from competent judges. She is an accomplished musician and a pianist of unusual brilliancy. She is also a linguist, speaking French and German with as much fluency as English, and what is more than all, she is a sweet, gentle girl, beloved by all who know her. Miss Edison has never found time to pose as a society butterfly. Not that she is a recluse; far from it. She is fond of the society in which brains count for more than a bank account. Like her father, she is a most brilliant and fascinating talker, and, like him, a perfect mine of information on topics of general interest. She can discuss the latest phase of German politics, the researches of Lombroso and others in spiritualism, the music of Brahms, science, art, literature—with all she is thoroughly familiar. Her opinions on these than a tom the technum. Brahms, science, art, literature—with all she is thoroughly familiar. Her opinions on these are her own, not the rechauffe ideas of reviewers. At present Miss Edison is abroad, and if rumor is to be believed she will soon change her name for that of an officer in the German army,

Rev. J. W. Campbell of the First Metho Rev. J. W. Campbell of the First Methodist Episcopal Church is home from the North, and his son Claude came with him. A Times reporter called on Mr. Campbell last evening at his residence. The reverend gentleman has been much disturbed over the unfortunate affair, and while the subject is very distasteful to him, he is very anxious that the people here should have a correct impression of the whole occurrence, and to that end furnished for publication a full statement setting forth his side of the case, which is given below.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 13.—(To the Editor of The Times:) Allow me to express my thanks for your timely editorial upon hazing, connected with the unfortunate affair in which my son was the victim. I do this not because one of my family happened to be chosen for the sacrifice, but because you have voiced the convictions of all lovers of law and good government.

In this connection, I desire to say that my estimate of hazing and hoodlums ranks about equally with that of the football game. When young men go from the field maimed for life, and in some instances have been killed outright, I can find no words to express my utter contempt for the game as now conducted. The presidents and professors of our universities are filled with alarm all over the country and say that something must be done. The spirit that was exhibited at the last battle between the Stanford and Berkeley men could only find its fullest vent at the close of the game by midnight brawling, shooting and hazing. That there are noble young men who are members of the football team we do not question, but the sight and performance connected with the game do not convey to us the idea of a higher education.

When my son put on the Stanford colors and shouted for the Stanford team it was as if he had shaken out a red flag before a mad built and the results upon his person could not have been much more harmful, except to kill him.

The lowest vulgarisms were indulged in that language could express. Threatened violence, which, if carried out would have left him an invalid for life, had he lived, was showered upon him. The fact that the students who participated invited the lowest characters that could be found in the city of Berkeley to assist them in performing the foul deed would have heat characters that could be found in the city of Berkeley to assist them in performing the foul deed would have heat countries on the sanction the spirit or act of hazing. It is, however as punishment to the young man, but a brutality which would do credit to Apache Indians. Whe

C. Campbell from the association, expelling C. C. Campbell from the association, for, as alleged, treacherously giving information to the Stanford team. Mr. Downing denied positively that any information had been given to him or to any other member of his team that he was aware of. directly at any time regarding the Berkeley play."
Dr. Kellogg asked if there were any rumors or reports of the style of play at Berkeley. Downing said there were rumors, but of a very indefinite character, and he regarded them as baseless. In reply to Dr. Kellogg, Downing said: "In football circles there were rumors floating about, but they did not affect the play of the Stanford team."

In reply to Dr. Kellogg, Downing said if he talked with a Berkeley man who gave him points he (Campbell) ought to be able to pass on the information. Mr. Downing said there were new styles of play and new developments that were practiced in open field.

Mr. Downing said that while his men, on the spur of the moment might lend their ear to stories, they would not court or seek such information, nor would they take advantage of information nor would they take advantage of information obtained in such a way.

Claude Campbell, examined by Dr. Campbell, said he was on the Haight-street grounds at the time of the match. He never communicated signals or other information during the match to any person or persons. "Neither then nor during the whole course of the preliminary practice have I communicated any such information to the students or professors of Stanford." He admitted that he wrote letters to his chum, Louis Harrison, and to Bandmaster Kauffman, but "in no letter did I say anything about the Perkeley play. I visited Palo Alto once about a week after entering at Berkeley.

Prof. Edwards asked how he got within the fence at the match.

Dr. Kellogg asked Downing on what principle Campbell was selected for this privilege.

Answer. "First come first served." True we did not regard him as a Stanford student, but I was personally acquainted with Mr. Campbell and he was allowed to ride.

In reply to Dr. Kellogg, Campbell, Jr., said: "I withdrew from Berkeley subsequent to Thanksgiving day, and on Thanksgiving day I regarded myself as a member of the State University. I withdrew my deposit before I was hazed."

In reply to Dr. Campbell, Downing said that had he been a Berkeley man Camp-

In reply to Prof. Edwards Campbell said he helped the Stanford team by brushing the mud off their clothes. No one warned him. Mr. McGee told him he could not use the water of the sponging buckets, and he (Campbell) did not remember answering back. He (Campbell) had promised after last year's game, a year ago, that ne would rub for the Stanford men this year, and so he did. Campbell said the Stanford men were all his friends, and he had no friends at Berkeley. He wore Stanford colors in consequence of his Stanford friendship, but thought afterward it was a mistake to do so. Campbell said no one had suspected him of giving information up to Thanksgiving day.

While at Berkeley he had been studying mathematics, chemistry and drafting. I then asked President Keilogg if I should send for any more men at Stanford to substantiate the fact that my son had not given away any of the secrets of the Berkeley team. Dr. Kellogg said "he was satisfied, and that we could not go the whole round in this matter."

Prof. Bacon also said that he did not think that the young man could have given any secret signs away that belonged to Berkeley.

The following men of the university were arrested: Hilborn, Wettenner, Gray. McCoy, Haskell, Jones. These men pleaded guilty and paid their fines.

The following are Berkeley citizens who united with the students: "Brick" Mc-Vaney, Kenney, Tobin, Gilbert.

Despite the gorgeousness of this winter's fashiomable women, their attire presents many opportunities for exercising economy. The chance that lies in the fancy bodice and contrasting skirt comes for bodice and contrasting skirt comes fore-most, and the vogue of draping silken stuff with chiffon net or lace comes close after as an economical trick. Sleeves not quite big enough may be slashed and puffing put in of another material, or a sleeve puff may have a whole under side of color and material contrasting to the old sleeve. The puff that came to the elbow may now be pushed into larger dimensions by letting it reach only half as far down, and a fore sleeve of contrasting color and material makes all right. If the old gown is spotted and solled, patterns may be cut out of lace and set all over the gown wherever the spots come. HOME FROM EUROPE.

Returning Travelers Like to See

(New York Times:) Among the crowd of persons gathered on the pier end the other morning to greet friends homeward bound on the Tuetonic was a group of five or six persons, every one of whom carried a small American flag. As the big vessel slowly swung in from midstream, bringing at ast the faces of the pasengers who leaned expectantly over her deck rail into recognizable view, these flags were raised and waved. In the flutter of many handkerchiefs streaming to the breeze they were marked objects, and as such quickly attracted the attention of the friends aboard, which was the aim, evidently, of those who carried them. Until one has tried to pick out from a high deck a friend's face in the framing of unfamiliar bonnet or hat among a hundred upturned countenances the difficulty of the undertaking is not understood.

Home-coming European travelers, by the way, especially appreciate the presence of friends at the dock to greet them. "When I returned a fortnight ago." says a prostac and most uhemotional man, "it was with feverish expectancy that I scanned the assemblage on the pier. It was night, and I feared that my friends would not be there. 'I can scarcely bear the disappointment if they are not,' I said to myself, and my delight was positively childish when I caught a glimpse of my partner and an old friend standing side by side. My wife laughs yet at the boyish giee with wkich I turned to her and pointed them out, and as soon as I could catch their gaze I waved and shouted like a schoolboy. MARVELOUS ADVANCES IN THE MAKING OF NEWSPAPERS

Reminiscences of the New York Press-Famous Battles Between the Sun, the Herald and the Tribune.

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 10.—(Special Correspondence.) Newspaper enterprise in the matter of mechanical appliances, and of the collecting and editing of news, as exemplified by The Times today, is probably as complete an ilustration of advanced journalism as will be found anywhere in the world. Comparisons of the new era of newspaper making—that is, newspaper making since the introduction of stereotyping in the sixtles, with the methods followed prior to that time, have interest for newspaper makers, as well as for the readers. Journalistic enterprise of the old school in this country has for one of its chief promoters, Moses Y. Beach, of its chief promoters, Moses founder of the New York Sun. years ago this man inaugurated the of penny newspapers in the metrope publishing a four-page paper contain less matter than appears on one page of the Los Angeles Times of today. There the Los Angeles Times of today. There were no telegraphic dispatches in those days. The paste pot and shears supplemented the local news reports with items from journals of other States and of other lands. The Sun and the Herald were the leading papers. James Gordon Bennett, the elder, and Mr. Beach did not have much sparse cash. They were hitter rivals. leading papers. James Gordon Bennett, the elder, and Mr. Beach did not have much spare cash. They were bitter rivals. Their publication offices faced each other at the corner of Fulton and Nassau streets, and from these offices issued large editions of the respective papers, containing editorial broadsides of keen, cutting, personal criticism of the respective editors. The temper of the public was such as to relish this sort of journalism. From pen blows the fight frequently descended to personal encounters. With horsewhips did Bennett and Beach try to vent their rage one upon the other. There were trials in the police courts, and, afterward, recourse was had to the editorial pens again. And so the battle waged. Meanwhile the public applauded one side or the other, and eagerly bought the papers by the tens of thousands, until the Sun was soon selling 100,000 copies daily—the first daily paper in the United States to print that large number at each edition.

Mr. Beach urged R. Hoe & Co. to perfect their presses, and at last, that enterprising firm of press builders supplied a cylinder press, the cylinders of which were four stories high and facing each other, upon which eight men could feed flat paper at once. This was as much of a marvel in its day as are the splendid presses of The Times today with their individual capacity of 24,000 papers hourly.

The Sun was the first paper in this country to put in perfected steam appliances for operating its mammoth flat-bed presses.

The introduction of the electric telegraph created a kind of newspaper revolution, but for many years the establishment of lines between news centers was so slow that editors were obliged to depend lution, but for many years the establishment of lines between news centers was so slow that editors were obliged to depend on themselves for news from many points. For instance, at Utica, N. Y., a British subject was tried for burning a ship in Lake Erie. It involved a possible fight with England. News of the trial was important. The Sun established a pony express from Utica to New York city, 250 miles, to carry daily dispatches. It was a success. The news was carried at a ten to fifteen-mile-an-hour pace to the Sun office, and all competitors were beaten in the publication of the news. When the telegraph was in successful operation between Washington and Philadelphia' it was necessary to carry the dispatches by mail to New York. The Sun at once established a carrier-pigeon service between Philadelphia and Jersey City and once more printed Capitol news ahead of competitors. A carrier-pigeon loft was maintained for a news service between the Sun's news yacht, far out at sea, and the editor's sanctum. Incoming vessels, with important foreign news, were spoken and their reports sent to the city under the wings of birds flying at a speed of innety miles an hour. This service was so efficient and practicable that the reading public always looked to the Sun for the first news of importance. During the Mexican war the Sun established a special express consisting of steamboats and horses for carrying the news from the front to the line of railroad a thousand miles or so from New Orleans, at which city the news was first received from Mexico, and thus reaching New York twenty-four hours ahead of the United States mails. This stroke of enterprise so disconcerted the editors of other New York twenty-four hours ahead of the United States mails. This stroke of enterprise so disconcerted the editors of other New York twenty-four hours ahead of the United States mails. This stroke of enterprise so disconcerted the editors of other New York twenty-four hours ahead of the United States mails. This stroke of enterprise so discon the Los Angeles Times today to regularly lay 14,000 to 15,000, and frequently as high as 20,000 telegraphed words at the reader's breakfast table—a wast volume of fresh news, coming over 18,500 miles of wires.

Prior to the war, celebrated orators, at a certain meeting in Boston, discussed the burning question of the hour. The New York Tribune and the Sun competed for the first publication of this news. If the writer's memory serves, Henry J. Raymond represented the Sun. This was prior to the establishment of the New York Times. The last part of the return journey from Boston to New York was accomplished by special steamboats. The Sun had fitted up an impromptu composing-room on its boat. Raymond ground out copy rapidly for the compositors, and by the time of landing at New York the type columns containing this Boston report were ready for the Sun's forms. The Sun 'beat' the Tribune handsomely. At other times the Sun was beaten by its rivals, and one reason of the frequent mention of the Sun in this correspondence is simply because the writer happens to have the authenticated facts in his possession.

At present I should most likely vote for Thomas B. Reed for Speaker, and shall do so when the Fifty-fourth Congress convenes, unless something should develop in the next twelve months to render his election undesirable. Of such an event I have no fear.

I do not care to express myself as to what course the Republicans in the Fifty-fourth Congress should take on national issues.

fourth Congress should take on national issues.

The chief causes of Republican success were the hard times which followed so closely upon the advent to power of a Democratic administration, the business uncertainty consequent upon the delay in Congress to pass a tariff law, the factional contest among Democratic leaders upon the tariff measure passed by the Fifty-third Congress, the treatment which the veterans of the late war received at the hands of Mr. Cleveland's administration, and the humiliation felt, by all people, irrespective of party affiliations, at the Hawalian policy of Cleveland and Gresham. What must the Republican party do to retain ascendancy?

It must give a strong, clean administration of public affairs wherever intrusted with power. It must remain true to the principle of protection to American industries, and meet and solve the flagancial problem in such a manner as can industries, and meet and solve the financial problem in such a manner as to restore silver to a larger use in the monetary system of the country.

This can best be done by securing an international agreement, providing for the free coinage of silver by all the great commercial powers.

THE GOVERNOR-ELECT OF NORTH

MINTO (N. D.,) Dec. 1.—The Republican party in Congress should, at the earliest moment, restore the tariff on agricultural roducts and revive the reciprocity claus of the McKinley bill.

The success of the Republican party in the Northwest is attributed to two things, viz: The inability of the Democratic party to legislate for the best interests of the people, and an utter disregard of the prin-ciple, "The greatest good to the greatest number." The Democrats, too, have ac-cepted, the revolutionary and absurd schemes of the Populists. Business and financial men see in the success of Popufinancial men see in the success of Populism an element hostile to sound business principles. Knowing that the Republican party has always proven itself enough to consider the interests enough to consider the interests of the whole people paramount to that of one section, and that it has for more than thirty years been a party of business methods and business principles, the people, at the first opportunity, expressed their confidence in the Republican party by voting the section of the confidence in the results of the people of the section of th to reinstate it in power.

NORWICH (N. Y.,) Dec. 1.—The present Coagress is Democratic and charged with the responsibility of legislation. The Republican minority will continue to oppose all that is bad and sustain all that is good. We shall sustain sound currency, the national honor and credit and ever advocate the doctrine of protection and the central idea that this is an indivisible nation. The Flity-fourth Congress will be responsible for legislation, and we may rest assured that it will act harmoniously and speedily in advancing the policy and and speedily in advancing the policy and principles of the Republican party. Gen-eral prosperity will follow. I am strongly in favor of permanent

New York. Establish such headquarters and let it be a place which all Republicans may freely visit, and where information may be had and where all may feel at home. Such action will materially solidify and strengthen the party.

I am emphatically in favor of Thomas B. Reed for apeaker of the Fifty-fourth Congress. No sane Republican can otherwise feel.

Two causes brought Republican success. One was a determination to crush out corruption and anarchy by whatever name disguised, and the other was the enlightened public mind convinced that protection to American industries and home labor and firesides is absolutely essential to the individual and collective prosperity of the United States. The theory was understood, and all knew that protection brought prosperity, but actual experience was required to convince the people that free trade or anything approaching it must bring disaster to our manufacturing, commercial and agricultural interests. The people turned into the right road and are going to travel it.

Give the people honest money, honest men in office, an economical administration of public affairs, protection to their industries of every kind, and relief from the oppression and domination of corrupt and greedy trusts, and maintain a proper and friendly relation between capital and labor, extending the benefits of education and maintaining the dignity of American citzenship, and the Republican party is invincible.

that he will be chosen without Republican opporition.

The cause of Republican success is that the people, after twenty months' trial, have found the Democratic party to be entirely incompetent to manage the affairs of the nation.

Its foreign policy has been a deplorable and disgraceful failure. Its attitude toward the old soldiers who saved the country has been one of unconcealed hostility. Its repudiation of the economic policy of Jefferson, Madison, Jackson and Clay and its adoption of the unpatriotic and destructive dogmas of Calhovn and its attempt to enact those dogmas into law have blasted the prosperity of the land, melted away the wealth of the people and beggared labor beyond anything of the kind known in the history of the rasa. and the people resent being ruined by law.

The same incompetency which has prostrated the business of the country has depleted its revenues until the condition of the treasury has become alarming and the receilt of the government placed in peril, these results, contrasted with the almost handward prosperity, the unprecedented financial success, the steady employment of labor, the liberal rate of wages and the honorable foreign policy of the government under nearly a generation of Republican ascendancy were sufficient to open the eyes of a much less intelligent people than ours to what their best interests demanded.

CHICAGO. Dec. 1. — The elections of 1890 and 1892 were a protest against ex-treme protection. The election of 1894 is an emphatic protest against free trade treme protection. The election of 1894 is an emphatic protest against free trade or anything that approaches thereto. To be fair to ourselves and to the people, we should consider the result of these three elections together, and the lesson it teaches, in my judgment, is that we should "keep in the middle of the road."

The principle of protection has been fully indorsed, and may be, for the present generation, at least, regarded as permanent. The degree of protection may be properly fixed at that point where active competition begins and where trusts are made impossible; where the duty on imports is sufficient to cover the difference between the cost of labor at home and abroad.

Just at present the business world is in a state of convalescence and demands to be let alone. Recovery from the violent assaults to which it has been subjected will be slow, and judicious treatment will be essential to success. While the patient continues to gain, the dectors can afford to be patient. Needless agitation is suire to be condemned, and the symptoms must be closely watched, as a guide to future treatment.

The currency question is going to de-

The currency question is going to demand our best thought and wisest consideration. The problem of silver coinage will come to the front and must be disposed of, if not by international agreement, then positive agreement among ourselves. FURTHER THAN ALL, THE COUNTRY NEEDS CHANCE TO RECUPERATE. CHATTANOOGA, (Tenn.,) Dec. 4.-I think the chief cause of the Republican auccess this year was the war that was made by the Democratic party on the in-dustrial system of our country. Samuel J. Tilded, the most sagacious Democrat that Tilden, the most sagacious Democrat that has lived since the war, said that the party that undertook to destroy protection in this country would meet certain defeat.

In order to retain power in this country the Republican party must act wisely, discreetly, considerately and be patriotic rather than partisan. I believe in putting our tariff policy on a permanent basis, and on reasonable protection lines. I do not believe, however, that we should attempt our tariff legislation until after the next Presidential election. In the meantime, however, I would correct the wrong done by the Gorman bill in regard to the sugar tax, and would provide for reciprocity treaties. My idea is, however, that the country needs a rest and less of tariff legislation than it has had.

By all means, I favor the establishment of permanent headquarters for the Republican party.

CANTON, (Mass.,) Dec. 1.—The Republican party in the Fifth-fourth Congress, as well as in the remainder of the present Congress, should hold the ground we already have and prevent further slaughter of our American industries in the direction of free trade as promised by President Cleveland and Chairman Wilson.

The "Force" Bill. THING IF HUMBLE CITIZENS

THEREBY OBTAIN PRIVILEGE TO EAU CLAIRE (Wis.,) Dec. 1.-I am in favor of Mr. Reed for Speaker of the Fifty-fourth Congress.

The chief cause of Republican success

The chief cause of Republican success was the financial stringency of last year and the industrial depression which has pervaded the country ever since the Democratic party, in its national platform, declared its hostility to the policy, which, in June, 1892, gave us, as a nation, so much promise of great prosperity. There is no question but that the Republican party won because of the effect upon our industrial condition of the Democratic threats of tariff reform and the incorporation into law of the principle of tariff for revenue only, which policy affected the stomachs and the 'pockebbooks of the people of the country. of the country.

As to what the Republican party mus do to retain ascendancy is a difficulty problem. My own notion is that we should resist to the last extremity any should resist to the last extremity any attempt on the part of the Democratic party to enforce its threat to further engage in the work of tariff reform, and prevent any further reduction of tariff duties or enlarging the free list. This, I think, we can accomplish during the abort session by dilatory proceedings on the part of the minority. I fully realize that such a course may have the ize that such a course may have the effect of improving the condition of the country, and removing some of the alarm which now exists in the minds of the people respecting the danger of Democratic methods, and hence will not give the assurance of Republican avecage to cratic methods, and hence will not give the assurance of Republican auccess in 1895 that we might hope for if we let the Democratic party use all the rope necessary to hang itself.

As to the Fifty-fourth Congress, I believe the Republicans should frame a tariff bill upon the principles of the McKinley act, correcting whatever mistakes may have been made in that, and endeavor to pass it, and, if failure attends the efforts of the Republicans in that direction, in consequence of the opposition of the Democrats, either in the House or Senate, that the responsibility for such defeat may thus be clearly fixed with and upon the party opposing the passage of such bill favoring prosperity and the upbuilding of American industries.

I am in favor of what was known as the "Force bill," upon which so many Republicans became so contemptibly weak as, to my mind, to be unworthy to be called Republicans. There is much to be thought of in party policy, but when a great printiple is at stake, such as the right of free men to exercise their constitutional rights without danger of assassination, I do not think that this great nation ought to hesitate one moment, and it is the heritage of the Republican party to remedy the evils existing in the South respecting this question.

Magnitain Public Credit.

IS GOOD ENOUGH FOR AN AMERICAN.

CHIPPEWA FALLS (Wis.,) Dec. 1.—The general feeling throughout the country is that Reed should be made Speaker.

Republican success is due to the fact that the people lost all confidence in the Democratic party. There is no question but that they became thoroughly satisfied that the Democratic party was not equal to the work, and the people simply discharged them just as we would discharge an incompetent or unsatisfactory employee. If the Republican party desires to remain in power it must relieve some of the present burdens from the shoulders of the people. To that end it will have to make an enorgetic fight to return as speedily as possible to the doctrines of American protoction. I would not say the McKinley bill, item by item, but sufficient to furnish employment to the laborer of this country and a market for the farmer and manufacturer.

JOHN J. JENKINS, (M. C.)

A Place for Trade Above All. MARKET-SO PEOPLE WILL STRIVE

MARKET—SO PEOPLE WILL STRIVE FOR IT.

DES MOINES, Dec. 1.—I think it will be the duty of the Republican party in the Fifty-fourth Congress to steer clear of extreme legislation on any lines, but formulate a measure correcting the inequalities of the Gorman-Brice bill and stand firmly on the ground of protection to American interests. The party certainly cannot, and will not, engage in any financial legislation of a doubtful character, but-will maintain the public credit and all forms of our money at par with each other.

I have no opinion to express in regard to the establishment of permanent headquarters. I should be guided in that almost entirely by the judgment of such men as Mr. Manley and Gen. Clarkson.

I think the chief cause of the overwhelming Republican success is the utter disgust of the country caused by the incompetency of the Democratic party to administer the government successfully. It seems to me the verdict of the people is a stunning rebuke to the sentiments expressed by Mr. Wilson in his letter to Gen. Catchings. The people of the United States, when appealed to, stand by the party which represents this country against the world. They are thoroughly satisfied that measures which stimulate trade in foreign countries, but cause prostration at home, are not for their best interests. The object lesson on the "markets of the world," whereby we lost in Germany. Cuba and Brazil, while enormously reducing our own market, has done a great deal to swing public sentiment back to the theory that we have our best market on this side of the water. I think the more we can build up our industries and supply our own wants the more certain we are to be prosperous as a people.

I think what the Republican party needs to do to regain ascendancy is to, be true to the traditions of the party, and not try to go too fast in new lines of legislation. The fact that the Democratic party had full power, as a result of the election of 1892, has demonstrated the great advantage to the country of Republican ascendancy.

The quickest, and may be the most satisfactory plan, would be to permit national banks to issue circulating notes (national currency,) to the full face value of the bonds deposited by them with the United States Treasurer as security for circulation (instead of only 90 per cent. as now.) This, to some extent, would expand the circulating medium and remedy the restriction caused by the repeal of the Sherman silver clause referred to. One "vag," George Anderson, was up before Justice Seaman yesterday and was sentenced to $50 or sixty days, with the usual twenty-four hours' stay of commitment, in order that he might leave town, and it is safe to say that he will leave a soon as he can travel.

Such treatment is whely advertised by the fraternity, and that is the reason the city will be fairly free from "hobos" this winter.

ELECTIC OIL HEATERS.

There are no stoves on the market that approach these. They are the best made, the strongest heating, the most perfect working stoves of their class ever produced, giving the best and purest combustion it is possible to secure in a stove of this kind. The evaporation of the water in the reservoir, located within the burner, creates a mild and healthful atmosphere in the room. One wick will last a whole season. They are graceful and symmetrical and are real stoves. See them at the W. C. Furrey Stove Co., Nos. 155 to 155 North Spring street.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—(To the Editor of the Chicago Inter Ocean:) I can truthfully say: "I told you so." I told it loud and long and often. I told it before and after the Presidential nominations. I told it before and after the election. Many of my Southern and Democratic acquaintmy Southern and Democratic acquaint-ances, a year or a year and a half ago, set me down as little, if any, better than a blasphemer, in declaring publicly and privately, that "the election of Grover Cleveland was the greatest Republican vic ory since the days of Abraham Lincoln."

Was there ever in the history of the country, so gigntic a revolution in public sentiment in so short a time? It is but twenty months since the big and burly Buffalonian builhead went into the White House with neafly a million majority behind him, with both houses of Congress overwhelmingly his way, with three-fourths of all the State governments, North and South, enthusiastically backing him, and with millions of well-meaning, but untutored American citizens, of all shades of political bellef and unbellef, waving their hats and hurrahing for him.

And all the burlesque sages and pundits and grand panjandrums of the Grover and grand panjandrums of the Grover Kamehameha dynasty are puzzling their august skulls to account for "the prodig-ious disaster." the wiping out of "stuffed prophets" and stuffed prophetism. Cleve-land says it was Hill, Gorman and Erice. Hill. Gorman and Brice declare it was Cleveland. Little Billy Wilson charges it Cleveland. Little Billy Wilson charges it to industrial depression, hard times and suspicious delays in his queer brand of tariff reform in the Senate. Old Isham G. Harris. a dilapidated ante-bellum fossil, who represents Tennessee antediluvianism in the Senate, avers that "financial distress and mugwumpery produced the disastrous result." That illustrious sample of peanut statesman, Ambassador Bayard, who came home from England to see his little three-peach-orchards-and-a-whipping-post caricautre of Statehood go Republican for the first time in thirty years, suggests that it was "the failure to put agricultural and mineral raw muserials on the free list." The Nashville American thinks "the off year did it." "The Wattersonian Louisville Coulier-Journal lays it to "incompetency in leadership and faction in the ranks." The Baltimore Sun, which rarely has an opinion on any subject, is has an opinion on any sub rarely has an opinion on any subject, is sure "it was to rebuke the failure of Democratic Congressmen to follow Mr. Cleveland's advice." The Savannah News alleges that "the real cause of the defeat was the hard times." The Chlcago Record pronounces its the "handiwork of Senators Gorman, Brice and Smith." The Detroit Free Press calls it "an off-year result." The Indianapolis News attributes it to "Democratic faithlessness." The Chicago Herald regards it as "victory of a compact minority over a divided majority." The St. Paul Globe proclaims it "a triumph of calamity." Brother Data of the New York Sun, is inclined to dump the responsibility on Cleveland and faithlessness in the Chicago platform. And so they go; each wiseacre accounting for the smash-up in his own superficial way; all right in part, but all wrong in larger part.

They placed "the money devil" they had so long execrated at "the top of the heap." Cleveland did what no Republican in his position could ever have done-brought this country to a monometallic basis. By his humbug Democracy and the omnipotent bribery of half a billion dollars of annual patronage, he secured bunko Democratic votes enough in Congress to carry his gold brigandage scheme through, and turned the Capitol, the treasury, and the White House into annexes of Wall-street bucket shops and gambling bells. And 20.000 bankruptcles and 2,000,000 tramps and beggars promptly attested the monstrousness of his sin and infamy. In his first twelve months 40,000 miles of railroad went into receivers' hands, more than a hundred banks suspended, mines, mills, and factories were shut down, merchants and farfhers were sold out at forced sales, the whole republic was plastered with assignees' and mortgagees' notices, hordes of ragged and hungry tatterdemalions—American citizens and workingmen—beleaguered the national Capitol; the rad flag of bankruptcy and ruin waved triumphant over half the conthent, and the coyotes of universal perdition reared back on their hind legs and howled in ghoulish glee from Winnepesaukee to Yuba Dam.

DEMOCRATIC NEPOTISM.

Ever since the days of Grant, the Democratic party has howled itself hoarse and raw-thoated over Republican nepotists and nepotism. And today, every Democratic Cabinet nobody, Senator and allveged Representative, have all the departments at Washington jammed, till their heads and heels stick out of windows, with their sons and their nephews, their uncles and their cousins and their aunts—to say nothing of their other female connections. Democratic Vice-President Stevenson's son was appointed a paymaster in the navy—saddled for life on the country and the people, at $3000 a year, and a pension to his widow—and did not get it simply because he could not pass the necessary physical examination. Democratic Tariff Abortionist Billy Wilson's con has a similar appointment, and the people of the United States will be taxed for the rest of their lives, and their children after them, to pay this hopeful scion of filmfam reform his generous annuity. Democratic Secretary of the Treasury Carlisle has two sons drawing handsome salaries from the government, from you, from us. Democratic Secretary of the Navy Herbert has his son-in-law and a variegated assortment of other relatives and dependents billeted upon the dear people, you, us. Democratic Secretary would not be worth 22 cents. Democratic Senator Cockrell of Missouri, a wild-eyed and obstreperous reformer, had his son filching $1800 a year, as a committee clerk, during all the years he was at school, a thousand miles away. Democratic Senator Colquit of Georgia, till his death, had his twelve-year-old son as an alleged messenger, abstracting $1400 a year from the public pocket. Senators Ramsom, Blackburn, Gordon, Harris, Arkansas Jones, Pasco, Pugh, Millis and Butler—all illustrious and rambunctious Democratic ranters against Republican nepotism and nepotists—have sons or nephews pocketing big annual stipends of government money, because they are their sons and nephews. One official family

MONOPOLIES AND TRUSTS.

All Democratic speeches and platforms for years past have heaped a mountainous mass of 'turious vituperation upon trusts and monopolies. And yet, under the leadership of Gorman, Cal Brice, Havemeyer, Billy Wilson, Carlisle and McPherson's cook, and overwhelmingly Democratic Congress voted $40,000,000 a year out of the pockets of the people, your pockets, our pockets, into the insatiate clutches of the Sugar Trust alone; Olney, Cleveland's Attorney-General, is a lifelong monopolistic hireling; and the gigantic Whisky Trust has named its most gorgeously-advertised brand of bug-juice for Paul Jones, its Washington chief dobbyist, a mephew of Dan Voorhees of Indiana, chairman of the Democratic Senate Finance Committee. Funny is no name for it.

The Democratic party has split its political shirt to tatters with righteous indignation against the use of government vessels for private and personal jaunts and junkets; but that was under Republican Grunt and Hayes, Arthur and Harrison. Today the United States Navy is little more or less than a royally-appointed fleet of deadhed excursion boats for Cheap John officials and their families. Cleveland, who, twelve or fourteen years ago, was shaking dice for the drinks with Bissell in the back rooms of Buffalo beer saloons—has a United States steamer and a navy captain to take him and his spreeative cabinet cronies duck hunting and carousing; and every cub of a secretary or assistant secretary goes cruising like the czar or the shah, with the national ensign floating proudly at the peak forts and navy yachs wasting powder in thundering salutes, and brass bands—only less brazen than Democratic pretensions of economy and reform—cracking and racking the circumamblent atmosphere with hilarious harmonies. And the people, the great tolling masses—echo answers asses—foot all the rollicking fiddiers' bills.

TAMMANY RULE.

Tammany rule—which was Democratic rule—has been the rule of gin-millers and gambling-hellers, of dive-keepers and thugs, assassins, bribe-takers, and blackmailers, who have divided the revenues of bagnios and abortionists, and waxed rich on the wages of infamy and shame. It has been a rule of Tweeds and Crokers, Sheehans, Divers, Red Learys, and Drybollar Sullivans. It put an ex-dive boss and murderer at the head of municipal government, placed bunco steerers and criminals of every dye on judicial benches, and packed boards of aldermen and commissioners with penitentiary birds and outcasts. It turned the order of all God's universe topsy-tury and put hell uppermost, so that I never saw a cloud rise over Manhattan Island without expecting a shower of ashes and sulphur. The Dead Sea has for 4000 years rolled its dark billows of brimstone, salt and bitumen over two royal cities that were never viler than New York under the sway of Tammany bosses. The stench of its iniquities and infamies has compelled the archangels of heaven, as they flew over Gotham a million miles high, to wear patent-nipper clothespins on their radiant noses and carry disinfectants in the celestial hip-pockets. And Tammany rule has been Democratic dominion!

Adial Stevenson, a Sucker kiniman of mine, has been trundling about over the country, in all the "Jeffersonian simplicity" of a deadhead private car, expatiating in Kaskaskian or Kankakeean high English on "the glorfous principles of the grand old Democratic party." What are its "principles" Has it any? If so, are they not as ringed, streaked, striped and speckled as a fittle darkey's shirt in blackberry time? GOT WHAT IT DESERVED.

Why should such a party wonder at its overthrow? Why should such a Colossus of organized imbecility, failure and falsification ever have expected anything but defeat at the hands of the American people? Why should its "blind leaders of the blind" grope about for explanations of what was inevitable as the decrees of God? "Vox populi" is sometimes, though, alas! far too rarely, "vox Dei," instead of "vox diaboli." This was one of the times. The so-called Democratic party was temporarily annihilated because it deserved annihilation; because infinite promise and infinitesimal performance should not win; because 6,000,000 of people cannot be feoled all the time; because patriotic common sense and common decency have not wholly, perished in America. The temperature ranged below the aver The temperature ranged below the averages during the past week with occasional light frosts in the morning, in low exposed places, which did no injury except to very tender vegetation. The long-continued dry season was broken on the 6th, by a generous rainfall and which was followed by a five-days' bounteous and well-distributed precipitation in all sections which has given new life not only to farming, but to every class of business indusing, but to every class of business indu ing, but to every class of business industry. Plowing is now in active operation in every locality and the large acreage which had been dry-plowed and seeded will soon be covered with green verdure. The rain particularly benefited the dairy and cattle interests; grass is coming up and pasture will soon be abundant. Detailed reports follow:

San Luis Obispo county—San Luis Obispo city: The plentiful and well-distributed rains of the past four days were of benefit to all interests, especially to dairy and cattlemen. The rainfall was 2.21 inches; highest temperature, 66 deg.; lowest, 34 deg. Musick: Three and a quarter inches of rain fell from the 4th to the 7th. Pasture has commenced growing; plowing will Ventury county—Bardsdale: Three and a quarter inches of rain fell the past week, putting the ground in fine condition for plowing, starting pasture and placing orchards in good condition.

Los Angeles county—Lancaster: The rainfall up to the 7th was 1.32 inches; the foothills had more. Farmers are happy. Los Angeles city: The temperature ranged 4 deg. below the average for the week; the highest was 67 deg.; lowest, 41 deg. The rainfall was 2.61 inches. If fell so softly that every drop soaked into the ground. A great deal of land which has been seeded to barley will soon be up, the remaining land will be plowed as soon as dry enough. Orchards and vegetables are being cultivated. Verdugo: Rainfall for the past week, 2.61 inches; for the season, 3.34 inches. Farmers all busy plowing. Pasadena: Two and ninety-four hundretts inches of ra'n fell the past week. Ranchers are jubilant and are preparing for very extensive seeding and tree-planting. Oranges are turning. Highest temperature, 69 deg.; lowest, 39 deg. Duarte: The rainfall was 3:45 inches. Farmers are busy preparing land for seeding. There has been no frost here this winter. Oranges will be mostly shipped through the associations.

San Bernardino county—The rainfall at the Chino ranch was 4.59 inches up to Thursday.

Riverside county—South Riverside: Two and seventy-three hundredths inches of rain fell during the storm of the past week. The subsoil is thoroughly saturated. Hundreds of acres have been seeded to barley and more will follow. Riverside: The rainfall for the storm up to date was 2.39 inches; for a corresponding period last year it, was 2.05 inches. Moreno: Nearly three inches of rain fell and has started plowing for grain and in orchards. No frosts heavy enough to cause the leaves of deciduous trees to fall have occurred, so pruning is delayed. Oranges are coloring up and promise well on budded trees.

Orange county—Santa Ana: Three and forty-five hundredths inches of rain fell from Tuesday to Friday; farmers are busy and feel assured of good crops. Anahelm: The abundant rains of the past week, amounting to 3.50 inches, have enabled farmers to prepare the soil for planting and seeding. A large acreage will be sown for hay crops; sugar beets will be a large acreage. Tree-planting will be very active this season. Tustin: Over three inches of rain fell during the week. Farming operations will now be renewed under the most favorable outlook-for a good season. Walnuts have been mostly shipped and brought good returns; dried fruit continues dull; most of the local crop has gone East. Capietrano: The rainfall was 2.51 inches. The last of the walnut crop. amounting to 128 tons, has been shipped. The corn crop of 140 tons, is ready for market. Highest temperature, 68 deg.; lowest, 50 deg.

uthern Pacific Officials Object to the Restrictions Accompanying the Franchise—Petitions

PASADENA, Dec. 13. — (Special Correpondence.) It is learned that J. A. Muir, uperintendent of the Southern Pacific ompany, departed today for San Fransice to confer with the officials at Fourth ad Townsend streets, and that the reaen for the hurried trip was a telegram seelved from Mr. Huntington saying that se company could not and would not acpt the franchise in its present form, ith the objectionable conditions attached, ather than submit to what is alleged to a scheme to cinch the company, the with the objectionable conditions attached. Rather than submit to what is alleged to be a scheme to cinch the company, the project of building a branch line into Pasadena will be abandoned. In the opinion of many citizens, some of whom were quoted in this column this morning, such a decision, carried out, would be a public calamity though for a few property-owners it would be a victory. A large number of citizens were interviewed by a Times reporter today on the subject, and a large proportion of them expressed themselves in favor of the Council granting the franchise prayed for with only the usual restrictions, and not insist upon the board of arbitration idea. Some of these citizens were emphatic in declaring that they saw in the opposition an inclination to compel the company to pay exorbitant prices for rights, and favored giving the road a chance to fight its own battle, believing that the property-owners' interests will be quite safe with a jury of their peers. For business reasons, the citizens—merchants and professional men—who took this view of the controversy, declined to permit their names to be mentioned in his connection, fearing to offend some individuals. One citizen called attention to he fact that a single track road on lower Broadway where it is 100 feet wide, would it most only divide the 100-foot street, which is now barely passable for vehicles, not two streets each as wide as Moline venue, and several other thoroughfares in the city.

FOR A NEW SCHOOL BUILDING. It is difficult to keep track of all the arious petitions that are in circulation in the interest of office-seekers who want sputyships, humanitarians whose hearts leed for the Armenians, people who want is sell lots to a railroad and so forth. The stest is one addressed to the Board of chool Trustees asking that a mass-meet ago of voters be called to discuss the need a new school building, and the propriety holding a special election to vote on an issue of bonds. There is little chance for iscussion on the need of another building, and such a meeting will be useless miless some public-spirited citizen will neertake to establish the legality of the chool district by bringing a friendly suit to be decided judicially. Until such a desion is obtained no purchasers can be bund for the school bonds, no matter how reat may be the need of the additional commodations.

THE YATMAN REVIVAL.

Interest is growing in the Yatman revival, and the tabernacle was crowded at last evening's service. Miss Bolinger's solo, of which the theme was "Still There is Room in Heaven," so sweetly sung, prepared the audience for Mr. Yatman's request that there be perfect silence throughout the house. He directed the attention to the word, "God," which was printed in large letters, high over the pulpit, and asked the people to keep their eyes fixed steadily on the word and their thoughts on God. After a few moments of intense quiet, Mr. Yatman began singing. "A Charge to Keep I Have," and was joined by the whole congregation. The text for the evening's discourse was taken from the eleventh chapter of St. John's gospel, a part of the twenty-eighth verse: "Master is come, and calleth for thee." Mr. Yatman spoke very earnestly of God's call to faith, service and to glory. "The calls come through the preacher, from Providence and through the conscience, to the sinner, to the prodigal and to the Christian." "Hearken as unto the voice of God." Intense interest prevailed during the service. The illustrations were touching and strong. Many persons stood at the call, indicating their desire to be Christians. The evangelist said that "there should be no trying to be a Christian, but sceept Christ, be a Christian and try to be a good one." The winnouncement was made that Miss A. L. Berry of San Francisco would speak during the first hair hour of Friday evening's service, on "Church Extension," in the interests of the Christian Endeaver Societies.

About 6 o'clock this evening, while H. M. Luts and family of Orange Grove avenue were at dinner a bold burglar entered the house by some means not known. In the boudoir of Miss Lutz the burglar found a jewel case, and he rifled it of its contents, diamonds to the value of $350. When Miss Lutz entered her room after dinner her attention was first attracted to an open window, where the curtain hung outside, indicating the means of exit used by the thief. The absence of her jewels she detected at once and gave the alarm. The police were promptly notified and are at work on the case, though there is no clew. Petty burglaries in broad daylight have been too numerous to be pleasant lately, but in this instance the burglar made the best haul so far reported.

A BAD FALL. A BAD FALL.

J. H. Smith of South Pasadena met with a very severe accident this morning. He was employed on one of the cottages being built for B. F. Ball, on De Lacey street, and at the time of the accident was working on a scaffold. The frail structure gave way beneath him, throwing him to the ground in such a manner as to break his left arm high up in the shoulder. Dr. Swearinger attended the unfortunate man, who will necessarily be laid up some time with the injury.

The benevolent contributions have been $4015.36 for the church, $105.41 for Sabbath-school, $191.90 for church mission work, $198.31 for the Ladies' Aid Society, $45.95 for the Y.P.S.C.E. The total receipts (as shown by the treasurer's report) were $4576.73. The ayerage receipts per member were $7.27. Up to December 5, 1894, the treasurer was able to report the church free of debt and all bills paid.

Prof. A. J. McClatchie was greeted by a large audience at the Universalist Church Wednesday evening, when he delivered a most interesting lecture on "Bacteria." The speaker is an accomplished acientist, a member of the faculty of the Throop Polytechnic Institute, and everything he has to say on his topics is of much interest. His lecture was a popular rather than a technical one, and conveyed much new information to his hearers. In his next lecture the disease-causing bacteria are to be discussed, and the methods of studying bacteria outlined. THE DELINQUENT TAX LIST.

As evidence that times are improving in Orange county, reference need but be made to the tax list of the present year, which has just become delinquent, and compare the same with the list of last year. The amount delinquent last year was $4764.40, and this year it is only $3797.23, a difference of $967.17.

This is a most gratifying showing, especially when it is considered that the past year has been a very hard one on the farmers in many portions of the State on account of the continued dry weather. Orange county's water supply is such that a dry season or two does not have any great effect on the agriculturists of the lower portions of the valley. The higher valley lands are thoroughly irrigated and, therefore, are not dependent entirely upon the rains of the season.

AN OBSTREPEROUS "HOBO."

Station Agent Strait of the Santa Fe at Orange had a narrow escape Wednesday evening from being dangerously injured by a villainous tramp, who attempted to use a knife on him while he (the tramp) was being taken to the City Jail. The tramp had boarded the train at the junction and was begging money from passengers when Agent Strait noticed him, and took him off, starting with him to the station house. The tramp watched his opportunity, and, when Mr. Strait was not looking, he dealt him a heavy blow in the face, almost knocking him down. Mr. Strait quickly recovered, however, and then proceeded to pummel the tramp in a manner that was truly commendable, to say the least. The "hobo" soon yelled "enough," and then the plucky agent again started with him for the City Jail. When he arrived there the tramp again went at him, this time with an open knife, swearing that he would kill him, but again he was knocked down before he could do any harm, and then hustled into jail to reflect at his leisure over the evil of his ways. He will be brought down to Santa Ana tomorrow (Friday) to be given a term in the County Jail. AN OBSTREPEROUS "HOBO."

REDLANDS.

REDLANDS, Dec. 13. — (Special Correspondence.) The City Trustees met in regular session last evening and trans-acted considerable business. One of the first things considered was the petition of E. Vache, owner of the Brookside Winery at Brookside Station, south of the city, for a wholesale liquor license. There has never been a wholesale liquor house in the city, although the Brookside Winery is city, although the Brookside Winery is so near the city limits on the south that it has amounted to practically the same thing, so far as the city is concerned, as Mr. Vache has run a delivery wagon into the city to supply families with liquors. The pepper berries were pretty well stripped from the trees, some large branches broken from the shade trees and oranges upon the north side of the trees, especially of seedlings, were somewhat injured by the rubbing and pricking of the skins. Speaking of the norther, Capt. M. J. Daniels, president of the Orange-growers' Bank, said: "I have lived here for five years, and this is the first time in all that period in which we have not had severe northers earlier in the season. We have always had them in November, and frequently in October." Coming directly off the snow upon the mountain range north of here, the wind was much colder than is usual for northers. Today the telegraphic weather forecast was for colder weather, with frost and perhaps freezing tomorrow morning. This caused considerable apprehension among the orange-growers lest they should again lose their crops, and there was a great deal of discussion respecting the weather and the probable result if there should be a severe freeze, taking the orange crop this year.

society was formed, and it has meen taking an active interest in matters properly coming within the scope of such an organization.

As soon as it was learned that the proposed county prohibition ordinance had been defeated at the general election, the Law and Order Society interested itself in the matter. The county Supervisors had individually pledged themselves to the people that, should the prohibition ordinance voted upon be carried, they would recenact the ordinance and make it a county ordinance through the regular legal method; but should the ordinance be defeated they would take it to mean that a majority of the citizens were not in favor of prohibition, but wanted high license in the county. There was presented at the last meeting of the society the ordinance which it is proposed the society shall sak the county Supervisors to pass was presented and discussed, and if it becomes a law there is reason to believe that the restrictions are exacting enough to satisfy the strictest high license advecates. The ordinance is modeled after the Pomona city ordinance, but has more restrictions contained in it. The annual license for a retail saloon is but $1000. The dispensing of all ilquors must be conducted in one room upon the ground floor, with no side rooms, basement or upper floor connections, and no cards, billiards or pool tables, games of any kind, chairs, tables or seats of any kind, "save and except one chair for the use of the licensee or his employees," are to be allowed. The room must be open to the public gaze. With windows covering at least half of the front, opening upon a principal thoroughfare. The windows must not be screened in any way. The whole of the business shall be open to the public gaze. The barriender shall be an appointee of the Supervisors, by whom he shall be alected, and the business shall be under the general supervision of the County Supervisors. The ordinance is intended to remove all the obnoxious features of the saloon save that of dispensing liquors, which a majority of the Meeting of Business Men. SANTA BARBARA, Dec. 12 .- (Special Correspondence.) A partial organization was effected last night of a society for the promotion of the new amusement hall enterprise. About thirty persons were present. The meeting was called to order by Dr. Stanbach, who was elected tempo-rary chairman. Percy Nichols was elected rary chairman. Percy Nichols was elected secretary. Dr. Stanbach gave an outline of the proposed plan and stated that all kinds of amusements peculiar to clubs would be allowed, but that it was the wish of the originators of the scheme to exclude alcoholics and gambling. Expressions of opinion on this matter were called for and all seemed to be heartily in accord with the plan as set forth by the doctor. It was proposed that the organization join with the Keeley League temporarily, so far as the social part of the plan was concerned. This was discussed at some length and finally referred to a special committee, consisting of E. Hiller, C. A. Noble, C. C. Knight, who are to confer with a committee from the Keeley League on the above proposition. The Committee on Organization consists of C. E. George, Dr. White and H. C. Mr. Otis, an employee of the hardware firm of Roeder & Ott of this city, had a narrow escape this morning from death by asphyxiation. He was sent to the Arilington Hotel to clean a tank or clatern used to store crude petroleum in. He descended into the tank through a fourfoot shaft, going down a rope, hand over hand. On reaching the bottom he was overcome by the gas, and it was only after repeated efforts that a rope was placed around his body and he was hauled out unconscious. Physicians were at once summoned and by means of artificial respiration the young man was soon brought to his senses.

jams," but his friends insist that he is crary.

About ten days ago he came out from a spell of hard drinking-and a corresponding big drunk, and at once began to complain that there was a plot on foot to shoot him in the back and kill him. He accused his best friends of being in the plot, and would have nothing to do with them. He refused to take medicine, saying it was poisoned, and has not slept a minute for ten days, declaring violently that as soon as he slept his enemies would put him in a coffin, nail down the lid and bury him alive.

Dr. Bryant gave him an opiate that put him to sleep, and eased his fears and it is expected he will be all right in a day or two.

HE WAS ELECTED.

A Police Justice for Whose Office no Provision was Made.

ated Press Leased-wire Service. NEW YORK, Dec. 13 -- Edward H. Gor of Wappinger Falls received 40 votes Police Justice in 1893, an office that was to be filled, but for the filling of which the election officers had made no provision whatever. He was not regularly nominated, nor were any official ballots containing his name printed, but after the election he name printed, but after the election he claimed the office and Judge Dykeman of the Supreme Court sustained his claim. Goring's counsel has received word that this decision had been confirmed by the general term.

Justice Brown, who wrote the opinion, said that the question presented was whether a duly-qualified voter may vote for a person for an office who is not named on the official ballot, and for which no candidate had been nominated, but which may be filled at the election. No votes were cast for any other candidate than Goring, and the village Trustees had previously decided that the office was unnecessary. Counsel for the Wappinger Falls Trustees contended that a citizen chosen under such conditions was not fully elected, inder such conditions was not fully elected,

The opinion states that the right to vote is derived from the Constitution; the manner of voting is regulated by the statute. The constitutional provision is that The constitutional provision is that 'every male citizen of the age of 21 years This provision confers the right to vote for a person for every office required by law to be filled at the election at which the voter desires to vote. Any law which pro-hibits the right to vote is unconstitutional.
